EARLY ACCORD EXPECTED FOR COAL TROUBLE

HENRY FORD STILL HOLDOUT ON NRA CODE

BY JAMES P. SELVAGE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—Out of a significant White House conference tonight came word that a bituminous coal code would be promulgated probably by Saturday and that the Roosevelt administration intended to watch and wait with Henry Ford for a time.

With Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, at his side, President Rosoevelt was authoritatively reported to have told the non-union coal operators from the Appalachian fields and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers that they must agree, and quickly.

No Sudden Action

Turning to the question of Henry Ford's failure to align himself with the recovery program by accepting the automobile code, Johnson said he and the president were agreed that no sudden action against the manufacturer was called for. Instead, he reiterated that events would be allowed to take their course with the expectation in the administration that public opinion would militate strongly against Ford's position.

Johnson said he was not inclined to go out seeking a legal battle, and for the first time he revealed that he had understood Ford was going to move with the remainder of the industry.

Asserting he had talked to the independent manufacturer during July when he went to Detroit, Johnson said:

"It may have been he didn't understand what was planned. It was pretty early in the game. But I understood he was going along."

RETURNS FRIDAY

Detroit, Sept. 6 (AP)—The deadlock between the National Recovery Administration and the Ford Motor Co., still a holdout from the automotive code, continued unabated tonight in the face of an impending conference between President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, on Henry Ford's position.

Edsel Ford, president of the motor company and son of the motor magnate, returned to Detroit today from Seal Harbor, Me., where he had been vacationing, but he eluded interviewers and would not comment on the company's plans for participation or non-participation in the N. R. A. The elder Ford remained secluded in his upper Michigan vacation camp, with indications that he will not return to Detroit before Friday.

Indications at the Ford plant, however, were that the conference between the president and the recovery administrator was not unexpected. Officials, declining the use of their names, had commented that they expected President Roosevelt might have something to say as soon as he returned from his vacation. They professed to have no knowledge of the outcome of the conference.

EXPAND CREDIT

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—A two-fold plan of credit expansion for industry and the direction of public opinion against employers to compel re-employment under the Blue Eagle is being laid carefully by the administration as the next major step of the recovery

PRIEST'S STORY "PACK OF LIES"

Father Coughlin Did Not Have Bank Facts, Says Stair

Detroit, Sept. 6 (AP)—Describing as "a pack of lies" recent charges of banking misconduct made by the Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin against him, E. D. Stair, publisher of the Detroit Free Press, today told the one-man grand jury investigating bank closings here that he did not want to "bandy words with a man so devoid of truth and honor as Father Coughlin."

Stair's testimony came as the grand jury, which for three months has been investigating the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, reopened sessions after a three-day holiday.

"I don't want to bandy words with a man so devoid of truth and honor," said Stair, when asked by Prosecutor Toy if he had any direct comment to make on the priest's testimony. "Father Coughlin could have obtained the facts, but he did not choose to. What he said about me was just a pack of lies."

Wesson Seyburn and James T. McMillan, former directors of the First National, were requested to be ready to testify when court opens tomorrow. Senators Couzens is expected to return to the stand before the jury adjourns, but the date for his testimony has not been set.

Fight To Reduce Telephone Rates Opens Oct. 16th

Lansing, Sept. 6. (AP)—The state's ten-year fight to force a reduction in the rates of the Michigan Bell Telephone company will be re-opened Oct. 16 before the state public utilities commission.

Formal notice of the re-opening date will be sent to the company's counsel within the next few days, the commission announced today. Before that time conferences will be held with the attorney general's office and the Bell counsel to map out a progrem.

Commissioner Kit F. Clardy said the commission will delve into the entire matter of basic rates as well as such charges as so-called French telephones, transfers, and so forth. Voluminous testimony previously given together with recent audits and appraisals will be studied, he said.

The Michigan Bell rate case is one of the most famous in recent Michigan litigation. The present phase of the case dates back to 1926.

GOOD CITIZENS URGED TO BUY IN SEPTEMBER

CAMPAIGN OF SAFE DRIVING URGED BY GOVERNOR

Lansing, Sept. 6. (AP)—Governor Comstock urged the people of Michigan in a proclamation today to co-operate in the recovery administration's "Buy in September" campaign.

The proclamation follows:

"Our national government has instituted a program for economic recovery by systematic stimulation of industrial activity and increasing employment, to the end that a lasting prosperity may be enjoyed as speedily as advantage is taken of the opportunity thereby offered. Full co-operation of buyers as well as producers is necessary to the success of that program. It is a public duty. Release of the buying power of each individual citizen, even to the extent of anticipating winter needs, will do much to relieve Michigan from economic depression.

"Therefore, let September of 1933 be recognized as a month for making purchases of needed goods of all sorts, to the end that real progress may be made in forwarding the national industrial recovery program, by the opening of factories and markets, by the employment of more of our citizens, with the resultant enjoyment of prosperity by all."

HOLIDAY OCT. 12

Lansing, Sept. 6. (AP)—Proclamations urging special safety precautions during September and the observance of Columbus Day, Oct. 12, were issued by Governor Comstock today.

The executive pointed to a reopening of schools this month to urge careful driving by motorists. "Let us during the month of September," he said, "exercise the utmost care and do all that each of us can to safeguard the lives of adults and children alike and cooperate fully with the national program to that end."

The governor cited the 1909 Michigan statute designating Oct. 12 as a public holiday. "Four hundred and forty one years ago on the 12th of October the most important exploration of all time was accomplished in the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. The signal achievement so honored is no less important to us today than a realization of the vision, the courage, and the determination which led to its accomplishment."

JURY ACCUSES ART NORDGREN

Car Driver Held Responsible for Death of Carl Case

After hearing the testimony of eye witnesses and others, a coroner's jury last night investigating the accidental death of Carl Case, of Trenary, returned a verdict placing the blame for the man's death on Arthur Nordgren who was driving Case's automobile at the time the machine turned over several times and crashed into a telephone post near the South Park Sunday night.

The verdict returned by the jury follows: "We, the jury in the case of inquiry as to the cause of death of one Carl Case, find from the evidence that the said Carl Case came to his death through the reckless driving of an automobile by one Arthur Nordgren who was intoxicated."

The verdict was signed by Archie Wood, jury foreman, Charles H. Gunkel, George H. Cobb, Benjamin J. Gibbs, George Labre and Hubert Grosnick, jury members.

Eye Witnesses Testify

Coroner George C. Bartley presided at the inquest, while Prosecuting Attorney Wm. J. Miller carried on the questioning of witnesses.

Among the witnesses who testified were: Mrs. Nellie Weissert Farrell and her sister, Mrs. Della Weissert Spade, Ford River road; Christ Larson, Ford River road; Arnold Johnson, Herbert and Ted Scheriff, Patrolman Joseph I. Perow, Assistant Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer, Chief of Police John J. Tolan and Dr. H. J. Defnet.

Dr. Defnet, who was the first witness to be called to the stand, testified that he was called out to St. Francis hospital to treat the accident victims. He described the injuries received by Case, and which caused his instant death. Nordgren suffered a broken shoulder blade and bruises about the

Senator Vandenberg Talks Here Tonight

U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg will address an Escanaba Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting at the Ludington hotel at 6:15 o'clock this evening. His topic will be: "The State of the Union."

Everyone is invited to attend. Reservations should be made at the chamber of commerce office before noon today.

George N. Harder will serve as toastmaster at this evening's program. The invocation will be given by Dr. C. A. Lund, and a solo number will be sung by Miss Rose Bink of Escanaba.

Senator Vandenberg, nicknamed by newspaper correspondents as the "great phrase-maker," is an able orator and a keen student of government and politics. Before his appointment by Gov. Fred W. Green to the senate in 1928 to fill the unexpired term of Woodbridge N. Ferris, Senator Vandenberg was actively engaged in newspaper work in Grand Rapids. He remains, however, as chairman of Federated Publicatoins, Inc., comprising a chain of lower Michigan newspapers.

Guards U. P. Interests

While in the senate he has always shown himself as mindful of the interests and desires of the upper peninsula. He has advocated the conversion of Isle Royale into a national park, and has been always active in support of adequate tariff protection for the copper and lumber industries of this region.

Senator Vandenberg is the author of several books, dealing with American history and government, including "The Greatest American, Alexander Hamilton," "If Hamilton Were Here Today," and "The Trail of Tradition."

A special invitation is extended to ladies for the Vandenberg meeting tonight. About 400 attended the dinner at Marquette last night, and nearly half of those present were women. Mrs. Vandenberg is accompanying the senator. Reservations for the Escanaba gathering may be obtained by calling the Chamber of Commerce office.

Sheriff Miller said the persons found at the camp were from Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo and Chicago, but the names were not revealed pending service of the warrants.

The officers said that when they arrived at the camp, known as the Sunshine Sports League, a game of handball was in progress while other occupants of the camp were bathing in Swan Creek, all nude. The campjers were said to have been married couples for most part. The Rings' two daughters, seven and 17 years old, were at the camp.

The Rings demanded an examination today, but the date will not be set until the others named in warrants are arraigned.

The veteran statesman, one of the most prominent in Great Britain, had been ill more than a week from a malady the exact nature of which was not disclosed but was thought to have resulted from high blood pressure.

Price Of Gasoline Goes Up Sept. 8th

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey and its subsidiary, Standard Oil of Louisiana, will advance the tank wagon and service station price of gasoline one cent per gallon on September 8.

The advance reflects the increased price of crude oil and the additional costs of doing business under the code formulated for the petroleum industry in accord with the national industrial recovery campaign.

FIRES CREEPING NEARER VILLAGE

Spirit Falls Surrounded; Midland Oil Fields Are in Danger

Merrill, Wis., Sept. 6 (AP)—Residents of the village of Spirit Falls, a settlement of about 20 families, near here was menaced tonight on three sides by a forest fire which has been burning since August 26.

Fanned by a strong northeast wind, the flames had crept to within a quarter of a mile of the community at the nearest Point, Col. Forest H. Himes, national guard officer, sent to the area to coordinate state and local fire fighters, reported.

Residents had made no move to evacuate their homes tonight, but a number of farm families near the village of Tripoli, north of Spirit Falls, have fled. Mrs. Mary Sato, 60 year old widow, who resided east of Tripoli, was convalescing in a hospital from burns received when her home was destroyed. She told hospital nurses she had lost $1,000, secreted about the house, in the flames.

DEPENDS ON WIND

Midland, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—Two oil fields, in Porter and Greendale townships, were endangered tonight by brush and stump fires that District Supervisor Gus A. Fuehr, of the state conservation department, said constituted the most serious fire menace in years.

Should the wind, which blew briskly from the west today, Veer to the north, it would drive the fire toward the rich Porter township oil field, over which hangs a blanket of gas from the wells which flow under high pressure, some of them at the rate of 5,000 barrels a day. The flames were about four miles from the field today.

Should a south wind spring up, the other fire would sweep toward the so-called old field, with its east extension, in Greendale township. The fire came within a mile of that field today.

Chicago Convicts Machine Gun Jack

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—It took a jury in Judge Thomas A. Green's court less than 30 minutes tonight to convict "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, reputed trigger man of the old Capone gang, under the state's new vagrancy law.

The conviction carries a sentence of six months in jail and came after the jurors heard testimony from Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operator director of the Chicago crime commission, that McGurn had the reputation of being "an habitual violator of all laws of the state of Illinois and of the United States."

McGurn, otherwise known as Vincent Gebardi, produced witnesses who testified that he was a legitimate business man who owned a part of a restaurant.

Patron Of Bank Slain By Gunman

TEXAS CHECKS UP ON LOSSES OF HURRICANE

AT LEAST 22 DEAD; CITRUS CROP RUINED

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 6 (AP)—Twenty-two known deaths, hundreds of injured and property damage running into millions of dollars formed the dark-hued picture tonight of the great hurricane which lashed south Texas Monday night and Tuesday.

Newspapermen and relief workers, ploughing their way through mud and water and debris of every description, finally were able to communicate to the outer world accurate details of the tropical fury which spread death and devastation through the rich valley of the lower Rio Grande.

Death List Mounts

At the same time the astonishing fact was revealed that, on the face of preliminary surveys, no lives were lost in Brownsville, a city of some 30,000 persons near the mouth of the big river, despite the terrific winds and general destruction of property.

Experienced relief workers expressed opinion, however, that the death list probably would be increased as outlying districts, isolated by high waters which followed the deluge of rain, were explored. Fear for the low-lying sections in Matamoros, the Mexican city across the river from Brownsville, especially was felt.

Eight persons were known to have lost their lives at Matamoros, four at Harlingen, two at San Benito, seven at Rio Hondo, and one at Port Isabel, Tex.

Warning Given

Brownsville's established list of injured showed 20 at that city, 48 at Harlingen, seven at Mercedes and 25 at Matamoros.

The number of persons suffering minor injuries, such as cuts by flying glass and bruises from hurtling debris, was estimated roughly at around 1,500.

The remarkable escape of Brownsville citizens was attributed to the fact that all had ample warning that the tropical hurricane was bearing down on the city.

Eight hundred persons were made homeless in Brownsville, according to incomplete surveys, many business buildings were destroyed or damaged, and the citrus crop, valued at around $12,000,000 and about ready for the harvest, was virtually wiped out.

All the way from McAllen to Brownsville, a distance of 60 miles, general desolation was evident. Nearly every residence and business building had suffered some damage, such as shattered

BODY OF KATES BAY GIRL FOUND

Ena LaBute, 27, Leaves Note Indicating Suicide

Missing since Monday, the body of Ena LaBute, 27, of Kates Bay, was found late Wednesday afternoon lying on the shore of the bay after the finding of a note indicating suicide intent led to a search. The body was found about a quarter mile north of Camp Mortarboard, within a few feet of the water's eadge. It is believed the body had been in the water about 24 hours or more and had been washed ashore, possibly during the windstorm Wednesday morning.

Miss LaBute was employed at the Lars P. Peterson home for about two months. Late Monday she left, saying that she was going to see her brother Oreill, caretaker at Camp Mortarboard. When she did not return, the Petersons began to make inquerles, and found that she had not appeared to visit the brother. Then a note was found in the girl's bedroom, in which she wrote that she had been waiting to "do this thing" for three years. She also stated that she was "sorry she was born," and thanked

WRECK BLAMED ONTO ENGINEER

Officials Sift Tragedy Which Killed 11; Injured Scores

BY CHARLES E. LANG
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—Definite blame for the Erie railroad wreck, which killed 14 persons and injured scores, last night, was placed upon the engineer of the milk train tonight by H. J. Bordwell, general manager of the eastern division of the railroad.

"Engineer M. H. King was to blame and alone to blame," he declared. "He absolutely disregarded signals, rules, regulations, and about everything else."

The milk train with King at the throttle plowed into the Chicago-to-New York Atlantic express as it stopped on the eastern outskirts of the city last night.

The engineer, immediately after the wreck, told newspapermen that he "didn't see the signal light in time to stop."

In his statement, Woodruff said both the signals involved "are in automatic train control territory and are so equipped that the engineer, before passing, has to acknowledge them, which indicates that he was aware that the track ahead was not clear."

One of the questions to which investigators are seeking an answer concerns the wooden car sandwiched in between regulation steel coaches on the Atlantic flier makeup. It was a steel bed car.

All the dead and many of the injured were taken from this car, third from the end of the express. The last two cars were of steel, as were the others.

MARINE FORCE IS ASSEMBLED IN EMERGENCY

NEW GOVERNMENT GUARANTEES TO KEEP ORDER

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—Amid fresh reports of Cuban disturbances President Roosevelt tonight called for the speedy establishment of a government to maintain order in the island Republic.

Mr. Roosevelt outlined the United States policy to the diplomatic representatives of South and Central America who were called to the White House while American warships were concentrating about the troubled island.

Avoid Intervention

To the spokesmen from the neighboring republics, he declared that it was the desire of the United States to avoid intervention and that everything possible to make this unnecessary was being done.

He said the key to the American policy toward Cuba in this crisis was that the Cuban people obtain as rapidly as possible a government of their own choosing and, equally important, a government that would maintain order.

He pointed out that if a government was constituted as quickly as possible to restore order it would have the happy effect of eliminating any threat or necessity of intervention.

Bound for Havana

But even as the president spoke a late message was going into the White House from Ambassador Welles at Cuba reporting considerable disquiet, especially on the southern coast of the island.

A regiment of marines stood by at the Quantico, Virginia, base ready for immediate movement.

Secretary Swanson of the navy was speeding down the Atlantic coast tonight aboard the cruiser Indianapolis with Havana as his first port of call on a trip originally planned as a tour of inspection of the west coast.

The battleship Mississippi was nearing Key West, Florida, while a group of destroyers, submarine chasers and other craft stood by within easy striking distance of other points of trouble on the island.

Havana, Sept. 6 (AP)—The new Cuban government tonight guaranteed order "in all the Republic" as reports of scattered disorders reached the Capital while American destroyers lay within gunshot of the island and others speeded in this direction.

The guarantee was conveyed in a manifesto which revealed that command of the armed forces soon will be returned to the heads of those organizations, whose noncommissioned officers and enlisted members participated in Monday's night coup which brought about the resignation of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes and his cabinet.

"Alarmist News"

Jose Irizarri, one of the five members of the executive commission which has taken over rule of the country, declared that the government had no official information "regarding the movement of United States marines, war boats or the arrival of the American secretary of the navy, Swanson" and that hence he could not reveal the official government's attitude.

He expressed his personal opinion, however, that such movements were under foot "merely because alarmist news was spread regarding the nature of the new government."

Sergio Carbo, another of the commission members, declared, however, "it would be offensive to the government of the United States to even think of the possibility of armed intervention at a time like this."

Pretty Girl, Nude, Jumps From Boat; Body Never Found

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—A night of fun aboard a cabin cruiser ended in tragedy today with the death in Lake Michigan of a girl invited along to provide "a little levity for the visiting salesmen."

The girl was Clara Moore, of Patterson, formerly of Lakewood, O., an attractive redhead, 24 years old.

Nude, she plunged from the afterdeck of the 45 foot cruiser "Pal O' Mine" with a wild cry: "This is a hell of a world!" The body was not seen again.

NEW TAXATION PLAN OUTLINED

Actual Return Urged as Basis for Michigan Assessments

Lansing, Sept. 6 (AP)—A twelve-point program of revising the general taxation system of the state was submitted to the legislative council today by Senator Andrew L. Moore, Republican, Pontiac, and member of the council.

The focal recommendation was to revise the basis of assessing real property from "cash value" to actual return. Other recommendations included the abolition of the state tax commission, a specific tax on stock share transactions, abolition of special assessments for public improvements, and the abolition of tax exemptions on all forms of securities.

Rentals under the Moore plan would serve as the basis for assessing property rather than an arbitrary cash value. "Real property," he said, "should not be taxed beyond its ability to pay."

Tax appeals would be taken to the local courts rather than the state tax commission. The state board of tax administration would take over the other functions of the commission.

Senator Moore, in urging the abolition of tax exemptions, said "all forms of wealth should be forced to share in the support of government."

The senator urged the creation of an adjustment board in each county to adjust delinquent taxes except special assessments. The legislature would also be asked to established a definition of "illegal assessment or lagol fraud" on the part of the assessing officer.

Municipalities could levy "occupational or license taxes" to compensate for the reduced property levies. The senator declared that special assessment for public improvements amounted to "confiscation."

He urged a homestead exemption up to $2,500 to encourage home ownership, reversion of lands sold for tax delinquency to local political units, and a shortening of the time between the return of the delinquent tax and the tax sale. The penalty for nonpayment would be promptly enforced.

The council took the recommendations under advisement.

Frensdorf Lands Stock Land Bank Job In Washington

Detroit, Sept. 6 (AP)—Appointment of Edward Frensdorf, veteran Democratic worker, as deputy commissioner of joint stock land banks, was announced today and he will establish headquarters in Washington Sept. 18 for liquidation of 41 land banks scattered all over the country, in compliance with a congressional order.

Appointment of Frensdorf, whose home is in Hudson, was made by Henry Morgenthau, jr., director of the Farm Credit Administration.

Frensdorf said he had no definite program outlined for liquidation of the 41 banks, which have $446,000,000 of farm mortgages outstanding. They have probably an equal amount of bonds, approximately one-third of which are in default.

He expects to start his work in Oregon and hopes eventually to work out a plan whereby the joint stock land bank mortgages would be taken over by the 11 federal land banks.

Frensdorf held office in Michigan briefly as director of prison industries earlier in the Comstock administration. A break between him and Governor William A. Comstock became known when he resigned, by request, a few months ago.

Criminal Insane Attempt Escape; One Inmate Shot

Mattewan, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—One inmate was shot to death and another wounded today in battle with guards and police at the state hospital for the criminal insane during an unsuccessful attempt of four crazed felons to escape.

The felons were armed with pistols, using blank cartridges. After exchange of shots, they barricaded themselves in the assembly room, where Ray Fisher, of Buffalo, an inmate described by officials of the institution as the leader of the attempt for freedom, was shot to death by State Trooper Harold Galvin.

Order among the 1200 inmates was restored after a tear gas barrage brought the surrender of Skelly Marshall, who was shot in both legs, and two other plotters, James Ellis and Reinhardt Bolz.

Detroit Gangster Dead On Highway

Detroit, Sept. 6. (AP)—Anthony Paro, 45, known to Detroit police as a gangster who may have headed a ring of automobile thieves, was found shot to death today beside a highway near Ann Arbor. He remained unidentified for several hours, until an inspector found his fingerprints in the police record bureau here.

Paro, Washtenaw county officials said, apparently had been shot as he sat in an automobile and the body tossed into a ditch beside the road. They had no clue as to the slayer, and said his gangster affiliations were not known.

This was disclosed today in administration circles as President Roosevelt called Hugh S. Johnson, the N. R. A. director, to the White House for a canvass of the obstacles blocking the upward climb and the failure of Henry Ford to adhere to the auto industry's code.

Privately, those who have been directing the nation's drive for greater purchasing power through higher wages and shortened working hours have shown impatience at the slowness of accomplishments.

High officials have attributed this to the disinclination of commercial banks to extend the credit necessary for industrial expansion, and reports that the number of employers displaying the Blue Eagle is far out of proportion with the number of new jobs believed to have been created. No actual figures on increased employment are available yet.

The current belief is that new stimulus through some sort of reconstruction corporation loans to business houses will be thrown behind the N. R. A. movement within a very few days to tie in with the demand that all employers who are either under codes or agreements with the president faithfully cooperate in expanding employment.

Jackson Prison Trusty Escapes, Caught On Farm

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—Harry Hill, 19, a trusty at Jackson state prison, was recaptured tonight five hours after he walked away from a farm at the prison where he had been stationed.

Hill made his way to the farm of Jack Parshall, near the village of Spring Arbor, about 8 o'clock tonight. Parshall, recognizing Hill's prison apparel, invited him into the house and notified prison guards who returned Hill to the prison.

Hill offered no resistance to his captores. He was quoted as saying that he walked away from the prison farm because other inmates there "picked on him." The Parshall farm is about 11 miles from the prison.

Hill was sentenced in September 1931 from Calhoun county, for illegally entering a building in the daytime. He is serving a six months to five year term.

San Jose, Cal., Sept. 6 (AP)—Defending himself on the stand against the charge that he beat his wife, Allene, to death with an iron pipe, David A. Lamson broke under the stress of emotion today as he told of finding the nude body of Mrs. Lamson in the bath tub of their Stanford university campus home last May 30.

He was put on the stand after the defense had called a succession of witnesses to counteract the state's contention that domestic discord was responsible for the tragedy.

The rains varied from eleven hundredths to thirty-five hundredths of an inch and were reported throughout the upper peninsula and in the vicinity of Gaylord, Alpena, Boyne City and Atlanta. The conservation department said additional rains are needed for permanent relief.

'TORSO SLAYER' SEARCH PUSHED

Man With Limp and Scar Object of Statewide Police Drive

Detroit, Sept. 6 (AP)—A man with a pronounced limp and a wide scar on the right side of his face was the object of a statewide police search tonight, as 50-year-old Edward McCann, sought as the "torso slayer" of his wife, remained missing.

While the police sought McCann, who, they said, limped noticeably and bore a large facial scar, members of the detective bureau beat the bushes along the outlying highways, dug in the basement of the McCann home, and searched unclaimed trunks for the torso of the woman whose arms and legs, roughly severed, were found in a field Monday.

Bloodstains in the McCann home, stories of neighbors of a quarrel Friday night, and the report of Roy Hendershott roomer in the McCann home, were said by the police to point unmistakably to McCann as the perpetrator of a gruesome murder. He was known to be fiercely jealous of his wife, and the woman's relatives said she "lived in constant fear of him." He was her fourth husband.

Hendershott, held for questioning, said McCann left his home abruptly when he heard a news resume telling of the discovery of the limbs of his wife. He has not been seen since. Bloodstained clothing, the police reported, was found in the home, and McCann's clothing, recently washed, was still hanging in a basement drier.

Cities Under Water

Arriving on relief trains from San Antonio, Houston, Corpus Christi, Kingsville and Laredo, relief workers, headed by Red Cross officials, organized swiftly to meet the threat of disease, hunger and thirst usual in such scenes of disaster.

Harlingen, in which 80 percent of all the buildings were destroyed or so badly damaged as to require reconstruction, remained under water today. Water also covered a large part of La Feria and Mercedes, but the work of cleaning up the debris and resuming business went ahead.

In Matamoros two towers of an ancient Cathedral fell, but it was said there that none of the six killed were in the building at the time.

At Corpus Christi, the Nueces-Don Patricio Causeway, constructed at a cost of $300,000, was lost.

Lynn Mayo and Cliff Jolley of Robstown, who were marooned on Padre Island since last Friday, were rescued in the plane of W. C. Maus, manager of the Corpus Christi airport.

Weak from hunger and exposure, they said they had to dig holes in the sand and hang on with their hands, at the same time pushing their feet into the ground, as the terrific winds swept the Island.

Macdonald Estate To Remain Intact

Flint, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—Circuit Judge Edward D. Black today refused to divide the $500,000 estate of the late Bruce MacDonald immediately, and ruled that provisions of the will specifying that the estate be held intact "until 1946 should be carried out.

Income, however, is to be divided equally among Balfe MacDonald, serving a sentence of 10 to 15 years for the slaying of his mother, Mrs. Grace MacDonald, and his two sisters, Mrs. Janet Palmer and Miss Gwenlaurie MacDonald.

Each will receive one-third of the estate at the expiration of the trust in 1946. Judge Black held that no one would profit now from a distribution of the estate. Mrs. Lizane Baird Pier, aunt of the three children, is named custodian for the income.

From Balfe's share of the income, Clifford A. Bishop, his counsel, is to be paid his fee. Bishop had urged the immediate distribution, on Balfe's behalf.

Ypsilanti Hospital Addition Approved; To Cost $3,159,000

Lansing, Sept. 6 (AP)—The state administrative board today gave its anticipated approval to a $3,159,000 addition to the state hospital for the insane at Ypsilanti as the first of 28 projects in the proposed $25,000,000 public works program for rehabilitating state institutions.

A resolution of approval was forwarded immediately to Dean Mortimer E. Cooley, engineer of the state public works board, who will submit it to Washington for approval. The state desires a liberal construction of the public works act to include projects that are not entirely self-liquidating.

The state will ask for a leasing agreement with the federal government. Once the Ypsilanti addition has been approved, other projects will be submitted to Washington.

face, and there was pronounced evidence that he had been drinking, the doctor said.

Mrs. Farrell told of going out Sunday evening for a ride with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Spade, and their six children, and gave an eye-witness account of the tragedy. She said she saw the brown sedan, driven by Nordgren, traveling from one side of the road to the other on M-35 near the athletic field at about 7:30 p. m. She said that Mr. Spade drove to the side of the road, and that the approaching car narrowly missed the Spade automobile. A short distance away, the sedan overturned three or four times and crashed into a telephone pole, breaking it in two, she said. Mrs. Farrell also said that she saw a man's body hurtling out from one of the rear side windows as the sedan overturned. The two men landed in the center of the road.

Mrs. Spade and Mr. Larson corroborated the testimony given by Mrs. Farrell.

50 to 60 M. P. H. Speed

Arnold Johnson testified to seeing Arthur Nordgren get into the automobile and drive it away following a stop at the Willows beer garden. Herbert and Ted Scheriff supported his testimony.

Mr. Spade gave testimony similar to that of Mrs. Spade and Mrs. Farrell and estimated the speed at which the car was traveling as between 50 and 60 miles per hour.

Police officers Perow and Bernard Schram told of being called to the scene of the accident, giving detailed accounts of conditions as they were at the time they arrived. The scene was further described by the driver of the ambulance in which the men were taken to the hospital, Arthur J. DeMars. DeMars' testimony and that of Officer Coplan corroborated previous testimony that Nordgren had been drinking.

Testimony of Chief of Police John J. Tolan and Assistant Chief Michael Ettenhofer was largely that of measurements made at the scene of the accident and explanations of photographs of the scene following the accident. The Chief added testimony as to Nordgren's intoxicated condition.

After the hearing of all testimony the members of the jury recessed to visit the scene of the accident and reconvened at 8:15 o'clock in the evening when after receiving their final instructions they retired to deliberate upon the evidence and formulate their findings.

The findings for the jury were brought in at 8:45 o'clock.

The body will be taken from the Allo Funeral Home and transported to the home of Mr. Case's father, R. Case, at Kingsley, near Traverse City.

Funeral services will probably be held from the home there Saturday afternoon, with burial in Kingsley cemetery.

Mrs. Case, who has been visiting her brother at North Hollywood, Calif., left Los Angeles by plane yesterday and will be in Kingsley today. Her sons, Jack and Gene, are making the trip by train, accompanied by their uncle.

Green promptly denied a change of venue for McGurn today and a jury was selected without delay. Taking of testimony is expected to get under way tomorrow.

BANKERS FIGHT GUARANTY LAW

Cooperation With NRA In Giving Credit Is Pledged

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—The American Bankers association today drafted its war map to battle against insurance of deposits, and at the same time announced a policy of cooperation with national recovery by administering credit to industry and commerce "within the limits of sound banking."

Five thousand bankers attending the association's convention adopted a resolution demanding postponement of the deposit guaranty clause in the national banking act of 1933, already adopted by congress and slated to become law next June 1.

The association suggested in a resolution that a federal commission be appointed to consider in relation to one another "the vastly important problems of money and banking and central banking, that are pressing for solution and settlement."

"It is clearly true," the resolution said, "that this nation can not indefinitely continue to carry on its business affairs with a monetary system in so unsettled a state as it is at present."

Reduction or elimination of interest on postal savings in order to prevent government competition with banks was urged by Gilbert L. Daane of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Savings Bank in addressing the savings division, from which he retired as president today.

He said banks were paying two and one-half percent interest to the postal savings trustees "on a patriotic impulse" and that the banks could not use the money profitably on that basis."

Mrs. Peterson for her kindness.

About 18 R. F. C. men working on the top of the bluff nearby, together with a dozen or more residents of the community formed a searching party. The body was discovered by Alec McDonald and Joseph Lewis, who were accompanied by Albert Watchorn and Ejar Bernard. At the point where the girl was lying, there is a sheer drop-off in the shore line. Sheriff William Miron, who was called to assist in the search, said that he learned the girl had left two other letters, one to Mrs. Harzen Beach and one to Mrs. Thomas LaBute.

Miss LaBute was born at Garden. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. LaBute, Norman, Edgar, Orell and Hartley of Garden; Mrs. Ray Ruthburn, Green Bay; Mrs. Lawrence Anderson, Cooks.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of the Allo funeral home, and the body was brought to this city last night.

WOMEN SEEK HUEY'S SCALP

Feminine Leaders' Campaign to Oust Sen. Long Launched

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Daily Press Washington Correspondent

Washington—Louisiana women, calling on all other women to join them, are after the tousle-haired scalp of Huey Long, the Senate's very bad boy.

They're trying to shame the dignified Senate into protecting its prestige by:

1. Vigorously investigating the primary election of Senator John Overton, Long's man, who was seated despite charges of fraud and corruption by his predecessor, Edwin S. Broussard.

2. Considering charges that Long is "a stench in the national nostrils," as laid before the Senate by former Governor John M. Parker in a petition for Huey's expulsion.

The Parker charges are buried in the judiciary committee. The elections investigation is theoretically still alive, but the committee handling it—under chairmanship of Senator Tom Connally of Texas—is not expected to annoy Overton or Long unless the women build a hot enough fire under it.

Organized in New Orleans

"The Women's Committee" is the simple name of the feminine anti-Long movement.

It was organized in a New Orleans drawing room after Overton was seated here last March. Through correspondence with women in other states it has sought to build itself into a strong national organization.

"Rescue us from Huey Long and his corrupt dictatorship!" cry the Louisiana women to the Senate and the rest of the country.

Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, a handsome, soft-voiced woman with determined eyes which have made more than one senator squirm in his chair, heads the committee. She is the mother of four children and has made no previous venture into public life except as wartime state chairman of the Women's National Defense Council. Mrs. Hammond became personally excited about the situation of her state when she went to the Senate committee's Overton-Broussard hearings, at which Long appeared belligerently as Overton's counsel.

Up to the Senate

"As citizens of the United States," she says, "we have a right to know just what are the standards of the United States Senate.

"The Senate can talk until doomsday about Louisiana washing her linen, but this is the Senate's own show. It's the Senate's investigation and if the committee will continue the investigation it will find a fact-finding committee in every parish ready to help it.

"We can't have honest elections, and we live in a tragic web of intimidation.

"The investigation has been inadequate and we want to know why, with plenty of funds available, the Senate hasn't sent its investigators back to Louisiana. There are records which cannot be privately obtained and certain leads which only the government can follow up. And witnesses, if they are to brave the wrath of the Long machine, must know the federal government is behind them."

Small Beginning.

The Women's Committee began work when each member wrote all the people she knew in other states, recruiting active support and urging all hands to demand action from both the election and the judiciary committees.

Members of the election committee—Connally, Logan of Kentucky, Carey of Wyoming, Townsend of Delaware and Thomas of Utah—were interviewed, with no startling results. Connally said it must be proved that Overton had a part in the perpetration of fraud and corruption.

The women redoubled efforts to make their cause a national issue and to keep up a constant barrage on senators. The committee became a "national" committee, stressing everybody's in the Senate's integrity.

Membership blanks have been broadcast, pledging signers to work for rigorous Senate investigation of Overton's election and Long's unfitness for office.

All Democratic national committeewomen have been asked to join in prosecuting this "moral issue" and some have responded favorably. Mrs. Hammond has also contacted the heads of all large national women's organizations.

They Want Action

The Connally committee has a date to return to New Orleans, Oct. 16. The Women's Committee only asks that able investigators be sent back immediately so that the truth or falsity of the accusations against Long may be honestly and fearlessly ascertained.

The Parker charges which the women want checked include assertations that Long is "personally dishonest, corrupt and immoral' . . . "has created and maintained a system of corruption and debauchery unparalleled in the history of the state" . . . "made elections a farce" . . . "operated a system of racketeering . . . collecting money tribute for himself personally and his associates" . . . "escaped impeachment by bribery and other corrupt methods" . . . controls both Legislature and the courts and "is the greatest menace to American decency and civilization."

Would Vindicate Senate

Among the women associated with Mrs. Hammond are Mrs. James Craik Morris, wife of the Episcopalian bishop of Louisiana; Mrs. Ida Weiss Friend, nationally known clubwoman; Mrs. Martha Gasquet Westfeldt, of an old Louisiana family; Mrs. S. S. Labouisse, daughter of a former state supreme court justice; Miss Mary Railey, head of Child Welfare, and Miss Katherine Labouisse of the Consumers' League.

"We don't want any more senatorial courtesy," says Mrs. Hammond. "We want to make the American people realize that the Senate is the highest point of government, that it must not try to bury charges against a senator, and leave a state high and dry."

Lives With Indians

Marquette—Did you ever nibble peyote and see visions? If you haven't you have evidently missed something, judging from an interview we had yesterday from Gus Carlson, of Gwinn, who has returned recently from nine weeks sepnt among the Indians in southwestern Oklahoma.

While there, he attended a peyote ritual held to ask the Great Spirit to give the white men safe return to their far country.

The white men in question were Mr. Carlson and five other students of archeology sent out from the laboratory of anthropology of Santa Fe, New Mexico, a project financed by Rockefeller. The members lived on the Indian reservation and the objective of each was to acquire as much information and lore as possible from the old Indians and record it for research purposes.

SLATER VISITS DELTA COUNTY

Inspector Checks Over Applications for Homesteads

C. H. Slater, field inspector of state conservation department homestead lands, was in Escanaba this week investigating applications for homesteads in Delta county.

Homesteaders must agree to live on the land for five years and clear two acres a year, after which they may apply for a deed. The price is 10 cents an acre, or $4 a forty. An applicant must be 21 years of age or over, and an individual may obtain from one to four forties.

Carl J. Sawyer, chairman of the Delta county agricultural committee, which has supervision of the project for locating worthy families on tracts of land, stated yesterday that altogether 80 leases for land have been given. The county board of supervisors appropriated $1,000 to help the program, and this fund has been exhausted in the purchase of horses, cows, pigs, chickens and lumber for the settlers to help them get started.

About forty families are now living on farms provided through the efforts of the county agricultural committee. Most of the farms are located in the Cornell and Schaffer districts.

FIRE STILL GOING

A large crew of local fighters and C. C. C. men are still at work on a fire of unknown extent in the big marsh of the Tahquamenon east of the Gravelle place on the Deer Park road. The fire was known to be burning on Monday, believed to have been started by a lightning bolt on Sunday afternoon, but because of the smoke drifting up from the downstate fires could not be located until Monday night when it was found from the glow on the sky. The fire was headed for a heavy stand of timber owned by the Cleveland Cliff people on Tuesday afternoon, the tract being known as the Berry hardwoods where officers believe the green trees will act as a fire wall and they will be able to head it off. Officer Dick Beach reported late on Tuesday that the fighting was difficult because there are no roads, trails or fire lines in the locality and because of the heavy swamp smoke making it impossible to know of the fire until you are right up to it. Food and water is being furnished the fighters by the U. S. army officers, Lieuts. Canary and Richardson at camp 1688, Newberry.

AMUSEMENTS

Gene Autry, the WLS Oklahoma yodeling cowboy, opened his two-day engagement at the Delft yesterday, and was enthusiastically applauded by his audience during his performance. As a lonely telegraph operator on the Frisco railroad in Oklahoma, Autry learned to sing and accompany himself on the steel guitar to keep himself company. Incidentally, it was his railroad pass that served him as transportation on his first two trips to New York, which soon brought him fame and fortune as an entertainer, composer and broadcast performer.

Starting with a break-taking spectacle of the world shocking assassination of the Archduke Ferdinand of Austria in Serajevo just before the outbreak of the World War, and ending with an even more breath-taking climax in which a husband settles the fate of his wife and the man whom she loves by drinking himself to death over an embankment, "Storm at Daybreak," which opened yesterday at the Delft Theatre, proved to be one of those rare photoplays in which every reel is permeated with suspense, excitement and smash drama.

Acted to perfection by a cast which includes such film headliners as Kay Francis, Nils Asther, Walter Huston and Phillips Holmes, and filmed under the direction of Richard Boleslavsky, the man who made "Rasputin and the Empress," this new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer offering is a composite of all the romantic and dramatic ingredients which round up to furnish an all-sustaining evening of talkie entertainment.

BOARD IS "SYMPATHETIC"

The state administrative board on Tuesday lend its "moral recognition" to the plight faced by the schools of Michigan, but firmly declined to under-write a guarantee of $15,000,000, from monthly sales tax receipts, in order that the schools might be certain of operation through the regular school year. The plight of the schools was placed before the administrative board by Dr. Paul F. Voelker, state superintendent of public instruction, who asserted that not 50 per cent of the schools in Michigan can operate through the year without state aid. Dr. Voelker and a committee of school officers of the state suggested that a definite sum be appropriated by the board from sales tax receipts and apportioned to the school districts, in order that desperately needed financial aid might be assured.

While the state administrative board was adopting resolutions of condolence over the plight of the schools, over in the sales tax offices announcement was being made that sales tax receipts, for the first month of the operation of Michigan's sales tax law, were exceeding all expectations. Sales tax officials announced that 63,931 retailers of the state had collected upward of $2,600,000 for the month of July. It is estimated that more than 10,000 retailers did not file a report of their collections for the first month of the operation of the law and that eventually 75,000 retailers will be turning in their monthly collections, bringing total monthly returns under the law, to at least $3,000,000.

Resolutions of either "sympathy" or "condolence" won't keep Michigan's schools open, so it becomes apparent that no help can be expected from the state administrative board and other means must be found to provide the boys and girls of this state with the educational advantages to which they are entitled.

VERMONT IS TWENTY-FIFTH

Vermont, recognized in earlier years as one of the "dryest" states of the union, Tuesday joined the parade of states in rejecting federal prohibition. By a vote of two to one the people of Vermont made their state the twenty-fifth in the union to record itself for federal prohibition repeal.

Vermont became a bone dry state in 1852 and although a state local option law was adopted early in the present century the Green Mountain state, has stood through all history, with Maine and Kansas, as one of the nation's commonwealths where the dry regime held uncontrovertible control.

Because of its history Vermont had been counted, in the present battle, as one of the states where those opposed to national prohibition repeal held better than an even chance for victory for their cause. But the result of the voting on Tuesday was in no way dissimilar to the result recorded in every state in which the question has been submitted up to this time.

With Vermont now in the wet column, there is little prospect that either Maine or Kansas will deviate from the wet rule that has persisted, with unbroken continuity, in all states where the prohibition question has been submitted.

PEOPLE'S THOUGHT CHANGES

Back of all the concrete developments of the new program at Washington there exists a profound change in the outlook of the American people—a change which, in the long run, may well prove the most important single development of the whole "new deal."

This changed outlook finds its reflection in the various legislative acts by which the administration is seeking to implement recovery. But it is a deeper thing than any mere change in the machinery of government or political theory; it is not born of any party and it does not owe its existence to the presence or absence of any particular group on Capitol Hill.

Briefly, this change can be described by saying that we have at last got entirely away from the psychology and the odd kind of idealism that characterized us during nearly all of the '20s.

We have outgrown, that is to say, a stage in our history during which we were perhaps the most purely materialistic people on earth. In that stage we worshipped material success in a way that was almost devout. With a very few exceptions, our heroes were the men who knew how to make money fast — and we weren't very particular about how they made it. The go-getter and the high-pressure lad were in the limelight, and most of us envied them and tried to copy them.

That this was an extremely unhealthy period is, by this time, pretty clear. The machine age was beginning to dump its greatest problems in our laps, and we blithely ignored them because the machine age was making some people very rich. The seeds of all our present misfortunes took root in those days, and we were too self-satisfied to try to dig them out.

We are wiser, now; and in our attainment of wisdom we have had something very like a spiritual rebirth.

For in giving up our slavish admiration of money and the money-makers, we have made possible a return to the traditional American idealism. We have stopped defining progress as a steady increase in the number of millionaires, and because of that fact we have opened the way for progress of the only kind that is worth making—the progress that represents a fuller and wider life for the ordinary man.

GOOD, BUT NOT ENOUGH

The president of an Ohio board of education recently drew up a list of rules for being a good teacher. Among his requirements were the following:

Read detective stories, own movie cameras and radios, read 12 good books a year, keep a close mouth, attend community dances and use the rod on juvenile offenders in front of other pupils—do not use it often.

Now without trying to be snooty, one could very easily say that one of the things wrong with our public school system is the existence of board of education presidents with ideas like those. The various planks in that platform are all good enough, to be sure—but is it not a trifle surprising to have in charge of a school system a man who thinks those are the chief requirements for a good teacher?

IS THIS THE DAWN?

One of the brightest signs of the times is the compilation of figures by the National Industrial Conference showing that employment in the United States increased by better than 10 per cent in July over June, and that this was the largest monthly percentage gain recorded in 14 years.

Furthermore, July was the fourth successive month in which an employment gain had been recorded; and on top of thata it was shown that the people who had jobs were, on the average, working longer hours in July than had been the case in June.

The tide is rising—not as rapidly as we might like, perhaps but very steadily. Whatever may be the cause, and whoever may deserve the credit, we seem at last to be emerging from the depression. Could we possibly get better news than this?

Huey Long gets an offer of $1,000 a week to appear in a side-show. It'd be an awful comedown after all these years of burlesque.

That century plant down in the New York botanical garden has finally bloomed. That restores our faith. Maybe prohibition repeal will come, after all.

Fashion-designers plan to restore the hour-glass figure. Well, it's time.

LOVE OF EVE

(By NEA Service) BY LUCY WALLING

CHAPTER XXVI

It was Charles, the office boy, who had entered the room. He brought several copies of the home edition of the evening newspaper which he laid on Eve's desk.

She spread the pages open, hoping fervently that Mona had made no mistakes in sending out the copy. First she turned to Bixby's advertisement, studying it to see that each cut accompanied the copy it was to illustrate. Then, with more care, she read the advertisement to make sure she had not overlooked any typographical errors when she read the proof.

The next day was Saturday and the merchandise featured was a group of 100 winter coats marked down to $59.50 each. This lot included many coats that had been much higher priced originally. Barnes had written the copy himself after a consultation with Mr. Bixby and Miss Gordon, the coat buyer.

Fortunately, Eve thought, it would have been practically impossible for an error to occur. It was just then that Miss Gordon burst into the office with a copy of the newspaper in her hand demanding to know why the proof of the coat advertisement had not been sent to her for an O. K.

"Look at that!" the buyer almost shouted, pointing to the advertisement.

"Why, what's wrong with it?" Eve asked in dismay.

"What's wrong with it? Nothing—except a mistake of $20 in the price! The price on the copy was $59.50 as plain as anything. Look at the carbon of Mr. Barnes' copy and you'll see. And here it's $39.50. It means a loss of $2000 on 100 coats. Just wait until Mr. Bixby hears of this! Why wasn't the proof sent to me for my O. K.?"

"But I did send it to you!" Eve protested. "I sent it by Charles, the office boy."

"Well, he didn't come to me. Look up the copy and you'll see I didn't O. K. it."

Mr. Bixby entered the office at that moment. He, too, carried a copy of the same newspaper, open at the offending advertisement. His face was grim. Eve clutched at her vanishing courage. No matter who was to blame for this error, she would be held responsible because Barnes was absent.

The store owner opened the door of Barnes' office. Eve and Miss Gordon obeyed his unspoken command to enter. He followed and closed the door, for which Eve blessed him. She could not bear that Mona Allen should witness her humiliation. Mona must be at the bottom of this, of course. Eve had corrected the proofs that morning and then sent Charles to take them to the buyers whose departments were represented. Before Charles' return Eve had been called to Mr. Bixby's office—a summons she felt she must obey at once.

She had given Mona explicit directions about returning the proofs to the newspaper office. Mona had blundered in some way. Blundered purposely and maliciously, Eve was sure.

When Mr. Bixby asked for an explanation Eve gave the details, briefly and frankly, making no effort to evade the responsibility.

Charles was called in then and explained that he had been unable to find Miss Gordon though he had returned several times to the department. He had asked Miss Allen, he said, if he should take the advertisement to Mr. Bixby for an O. K., and she had replied that she would attend to the matter herself as she had another errand on the fifth floor and it would be no trouble to take the proofs.

Charles was dismissed then and Mona summoned. She came, as Eve knew she would, looking very young and innocent.

"Oh, did I do something wrong?" she exclaimed, lifting wide, appealing eyes to Mr. Bixby. "I'm terribly sorry! You see, I waited and waited for Mrs. Rader to come back—she said she'd only be gone a half hour and I expecter her any minute. Then when I was on the point of going up to your office, Mr. Bixby, as Charles had suggested I looked at my watch and saw that it was time for Mrs. Rader's lunch period. I knew she'd be back in time for that and would rather attend to the ad herself, so I thought it was all right for me to go to lunch."

"And of course," Arlene said when Eve related the story, "the big boss fell for all that—hook, line and sinker! The only reason she didn't grab the chance to go to Bixby's office was that some darned fool man called up and invited her to lunch. You'd think men would see through her wiles but they don't!"

"Well, it was my fault," admitted Eve. "I should have hurried back from Mr. Bixby's office to attend to the proofs myself. Knowing Mona as I do, I might have realized she'd make some mistake if she thought it could possibly get me into difficulties."

"Oh, well!" Arlene tried to comfort her, "the mistake was discovered in time to be corrected in the sports edition."

"Yes, but it's the home edition that the women read and the home edition that goes to all the country towns. You can imagine what would happen in the coat department tomorrow if Miss Gordon and her saleswomen tried to explain to all those bargain hunters that the price published was a typographical error. No, Mr. Bixby told Miss Gordon to go ahead with the sale as advertised. And of course she feels dreadful! So does Mr. Bixby but he tried not to show it. He'll stand down there tomorrow and watch that $2000 disappear without the flicker of an eyelash."

Eve forced herself to go down to the coat department next day to watch the results of the error. Mr. Bixby was there, a little withdrawn from the crowd and watching them swarm about the bargain racks. It was a scene of confusion, with the sales force working as rapidly as possible, trying to serve the throng, to answer questions, and fit coats and, through it all, remain pleasant voiced and courteous. The sale had attracted many avid bargain hunters who dragged garments from the racks and tried to fit themselves, crowding others from before the mirrors. It was a miracle that anyone could keep even-tempered after half an hour of that bedlam and Eve wondered at the self-control displayed by the saleswomen. Miss Gordon, brisk and efficient, seemed to be everywhere at once.

"I see that the criminal is drawn irresistibly to the scene of the murder!" a merry voice whispered in Eve's ear. She turned to face Arlene who had come up behind her.

"Couldn't resist coming down to view the slaughter myself," Arlene confessed. "Oh, my word! There's our blond playmate condoling with Mr. Bixby! You can't beat that girl for crust. She would come blithely away and leave the telephones unguarded! I'll have to get back to the office."

"I'll go with you," offered Eve, "I never want to see another bargain sale as long as I live!"

How she survived that day Eve never knew. She had felt ill with nervousness from the time the mistake in the advertisement was discovered Friday until closing hour Saturday. Over and over she tried to figure mentally how long it would take her to earn $2000. Then she thought of how much she would have to earn be-

LYRICS OF LIFE

By Douglas Malloch

(Copyright 1933 by Douglas Malloch)

THE FIRST DINNER

The first of our life, as a man and his wife—
Our first married dinner together—
I wanted so good, just as any bride would—
It must be my luck, or the weather.
The soup is a sin, it's so cold and so thin,
The relish is really pathetic;
There isn't a wisp of the celery crisp—
But don't think this dinner's prophetic!

The salad could be—well, it just seems to me
That ev'rything else is the matter;
The roast is too rare, and I doubt, anywhere,
You'll find any tea that is flatter.
I could break down and cry, that's such horrible pie,
The crust and the filling are awful;
But I know you won't mind, you're so good and so kind—
And you still love your own little lawful?

Yes, the dinner's a shame — no, it's I that's to be blame—
I wanted our first one so cheerful.
The dinner I planned was so perfectly grand,
And this is so perfectly fearful.
Just forgive me this once, for your wife's not a dunce,
You'll find she's a good and a true one.
This restaurant here is just terrible, dear,
But tomorrow I'll find us a new one.

Michael Baker, a resident of Ford River for many years, passed away at the Delta county hospital.

P. R. Legg, county school commissioner has proclaimed Friday, Sept. 19, as School Day at the Northern Michigan Fair here, when a one day vacation will be enjoyed by all the schools in Delta county.

Chief of Police Andrew Iverson has never qualified as a real motorcycle enthusiast, but he is getting a lot of free motorcycle rides these days, because the city is going to purchase a machine for the use of a city traffic officer.

Deputy State Game Warden Herman Leisner of this city, and John Rough of Nogaunee, arrested Peter Greenwood and J. Peterson, both of Spaulding, for hunting partridge out of season. The men were caught in the act near Cedar River.

Miss Rose Steinmetz has returned from a visit with relatives in Milwaukee.

Rains of this week have largely conquered serious forest fires raging in many sections of the peninsula, according to William R. Oates, state game, fish and forestry warden, who has been making his headquarters in the peninsula since the forest fire situation became serious.

Another bumper oats crop in Delta county has been reported by Isaac Pepin of Hyde, who harvested 830 bushels of oats from nine acres, bringing a yield per acre of 93 bushels. This is the heaviest oats yield reported this season on a Delta county farm.

BEER TRUCK IS WRECKED

Amber Fluid Scattered on Highway Near Ford River

Beer flowed freely on Highway US-2 and 41, one mile east of Ford River Switch, yesterday afternoon when a truck, loaded with kegs and cases of the amber fluid, overturned twice.

Robert Ewing, Sault Ste. Marie, driver of the Shay Trucking company's truck, was transporting a load of beer from Menominee to Sault Ste. Marie. He stated that he started to pass an automobile ahead of him, but then applied the brakes when he saw another car approaching a short distance away.

As he applied the brakes, his truck overturned twice, supposedly because of the locking of the rear wheels. The truck was slightly damaged, but Ewing was uninjured. William Constantineau of Schaffer was the driver of the automobile, which the truck attempted to pass.

About a dozen cases of bottled beer were lost by breakage. The driver also said that someone picked up two half-barrels of beer and hurried away from the scene.

Tuesday morning, a load of vegetables was strewn on the same highway a short distance from this spot when a L. & L. Transfer truck struck a trailer of an approaching automobile, belonging to Earl Kell of Wilson.

Mrs. Beauchamp, 20, Summoned By Death

Mrs. Thomas Beauchamp, 20, passed away at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, at a local hospital, as a result of complications which followed the birth of a daughter, six days ago.

She was born December 5, 1913, in Cornell, and was married to Thomas Beauchamp, son of Arsen Beauchamp of Flat Rock, May 27, 1930.

The body was taken to the Allo funeral home to be prepared for burial and will be returned to the Arsen Beauchamp home in Flat Rock late this afternoon. Funeral services will probably be held on Saturday morning at Holy Family church, and burial will be in Flat Rock cemetery.

The young mother is survived by her husband, two daughters, Geraldine, two and one-half years old, and Marian, six days old; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Verahgen, Cornell; and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Henry Menard, Flat Rock; Mrs. Albert Valind, Escanaba; Gertrude, and Lorraine, and Walter and Harold, of Cornell.

The University of Oxford is said to have been founded by King Alfred in 872.

Vandenberg Rated As Presidential Timber

U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Grand Rapids, who will address an Escanaba Chamber of Commerce forum dinner at the Ludington hotel this evening, is talked of in Washington political circles as Republican presidential timber.

After Senator Vandenberg's recent testimony in Detroit in the grand jury probe of the bank collapse there, Kirke Simpson, Associated Press writer, who is author of the daily "In Washington" articles, wrote the following:

Good Phrase-Maker.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, shows the benefit of newspaper training whenever he talks in public. He is a good phrase-maker. His shot about liquidity versus solvency before the Detroit grand jury hearing on the bank collapse there last February proves the case.

A liquid bank, Vandenberg held, was merely "a warehouse for money—not a bank."

The fact that just about that time the "Fighting Quaker" of the Democratic convention of 1920, A. Mitchell Palmer, was demanding in Washington as counsel for depositors greater expedition in reopening closed banks and that the Committee of the Nation was broadcasting publicity along the same line from New York, gives point to the Vandenberg quip.

Big Recovery Point.

He was not talking about the existing bank situation but about government policy in February. Yet there are a lot of exbankers and holders of warehouse receipts for still "un-get-at-able" funds in closed banks whose ears must have been pleasantly tickled by the Vandenberg remarks.

The question of getting those frozen bank deposits into circulation is one with which the Washington government must deal to realize its recovery plans. President Roosevelt is described as having planned to give personal attention to that problem.

Statistics compiled by the Committee of the Nation going beyond treasury figures to include banks shut down before the national banking holiday raised the total of frozen credit to a staggering figure.

Presidential Timber?

But to get back to Senator Vandenberg. Coincident with his appearance before the Detroit one-man grand jury, gossips began in Washington as to what his hopes and plans for his political future might be.

Up to then there seemed to be nobody outside of New York state who was looked upon as possible Republican presidential timber for 1936. That is, of course, with the exception of Herbert Hoover and Senator McNary, of Oregon.

Yet Washington political calculators do not expect Mr. Hoover to figure as a candidate in the 1936 picture and the fact that McNary's name was associated in authorship with the fruitless McNary-Haugen bill efforts to solve the farm problem is held to be a handicap for him.

So now one can hear some Vandenberg talk. It is recalled that he was very active and a thorough party regular during the last two sessions of congress. He gives every evidence of being ambitious and to be written of some day as the man who climbed from the press gallery to the presidency would be an attractive prospect.

Women Wield Mallet, Quell Armed Bandit

Meade, Kas., (AP)—A bold, bullet scarred bandit with a pistol held no terrors for two western Kansas housewives who laid him low last night with croquet mallets after one threatened to scream unless he went away.

Mrs. Anson Horning and Mrs. T. E. Prather, wives of school teachers here, talked calmly today of their adventure as officers sought to learn whether the prisoner has a record as a killer.

The man said he was D. E. Potter of Cincinnati, but offered no more information about himself.

"When he put that gun in my ribs and told me that if I knew what was good for me I would get out of the car," Mrs. Prather said, "I merely stood upon my womanly rights and told him I would scream if he didn't leave."

"He insisted and I screamed and honked the horn of the car."

(Entering Mrs. Horning, swinging mallet to bandit's head).

"Drop that gun," she cried.

(More struggling. Husbands enter fray)

Mrs. Horning—"If you don't drop that gun, I'll brain you."

(Bandit refuses to drop gun and Mrs. Horning sets about business of carrying out threat. Result—bad mark over bandits right eye—one that fits half of croquet mallet).

"You see," chided Mrs. Horning today, "we women stick together. That bandit had a gun all right but he didn't consider that we women have any spunk. Bandits are like that—a lot of them—they think that just because they have a gun they won't be challenged, and that everyone will do their bidding."

History of Escanaba

A Review of Its Early Growth, With a Description of Its Industries, Resources and Commercial Position Half Century Ago

BY WALTER R. NURSEY

As the sixties came, lingered and departed, in uneventful succession, the ranks of these early Michigan Argonauts slowly swelled, with the occasional advent of some restless eastern man, seeking new territory for the exercise of his wits. Close to its borders, Wisconsin acknowledged the justice of the peninsula's claim and sent its quota of emigrants.

No large access of immigration however, at any one time, marked an era in its urban history. The mines and forests, docks and railways, absorbed the majority of what may be called the floating population, and it of course necessarily, was not centralized in the village. The addition to the trade directory of residents, was an accretion in one sense only, for the occupiers of new stores were in many instances, recruits from the ranks of the day laborers, who had saved enough out of wages to purchase an outfit, and who by degrees, through high prices, and strict study of the laws of supply and demand, expanded their custom and their premises, and became in course of time shining lights in the category of Sand Point commerce.

A few "new chums" however, reached the scene, with the determination to embark in some business or trade; but this corporal's guard of gentle and simple, whether they were Wisconsin Badgers or Michigan Wolverines, did not consent to linger on the flanks of the pine forests, for the mere good of their health. The healing virtues which exuded with the resin from juniper and balm of Gilead, was good enough in its way, and a merciful panacea for the nasal tortured southerner—they, however, did not come to test the efficacy of its Bethseda powers; they came to this hub of the iron diggings in search of the almighty dollar, and with no known exception have they failed in the object of their mission.

In 1864, Hiram A. Barr, in the employ of the railroad company reached Escanaba and engaged in the building of the docks, whose construction mark a period—indeed the period—in the history of the city, as every event, both prior and subsequent to that event, has a consequential bearing upon its completion. The date of its building was an industrial pentecost, and as such, emphasizes a red letter day in the calendar of Green Bay chronology. "Before—or after—the first dock was built," is a phrase amongst citizens; a principal meridian as it were, on which to hang all temporal calculations. F. E. Harris, another pioneer, reached the settlement in 1866, followed by J. K. Stack, Columbus J. Provo, W. B. Linsley, the divisional superintendent of the C. & N. W. railway, arriving a year later.

It was not until 1866 that Escanaba was deemed sufficiently populated to admit of its being incorporated as a village, and which event constitutes, what may be termed the second period, in the history of the place. From thence on to the close of that current decade, its population never exceeded 1200 persons, but it was even sometime subsequent to its incorporation as a city in 1883, that any marked increase to its population, or expansion of its trade, became practically noticeable. Meanwhile a leaven of new comers dropped in, and embryo industries developed, and social organizations—healthy indications of moral culture—were forced into existence, by the demand of an increasing class of residents, cognizant of the advantages of the unifying of interests. In 1866, the first school was opened by Miss Dunbar, and in September following a school board was formed, and a winter school opened, the first school tax imposed, being a levy of $160 to provide for salaries of the teachers.

The accommodations offered by temporary quarters was not sufficient, and in 1868 a special building was erected which in its turn only served the purpose for a while, as in 1871 it was found necessary to again enlarge the structure at a cost of several thousand dollars; and this enlargement process was continued until 1880, when the total number of children of school age had so multiplied, that a new building was found to be necessary, and the present fine edifice, was completed at an outlay of $30,000. This, again later on—as the citizens were not slow to obey the injunctions as to marital responsibilities, imposed by the highest Authority—was found to be unequal for the accommodation of Escanaba's rebundant quivers and war schools, and in the case of the Roman Catholic portion of the community—separate schools, were shortly forced into existence. In 1867, the first fire company was organized, a hook and bucket bridage, preparatory to the organization of Fire Company No. 1 in 1873.

In 1876, Delta Lodge No. 185 A. F. & A. M. was opened, the first worshipful master being Gilman Chase. In 1868 Escanaba lodge No. 118 I. O. O. F. was organized with Dr. Curtis Bellows as noble grand. About this time a member of the fourth estate arrived to size up the situation. Assuming the universally accepted proposition, to be the correct one, that newspapers, are the only practical mediums, by which any locality can hope to divert outside notice to its schedule of advantages—we have not to go far to seek the cause of Escanaba's pen insula notoriety.

In December 1869 the pioneer journalist of the Delta, appeared in the person of E. P. Lott, who launched the Tribune, to supply the increasing demand for periodical news. Later on it passed into the hands of J. A. Crozer, who in 1870 made a transfer of his interest to C. D. Jewell, who sold out to Jas F. Atkinson, who likewise surrendered his proprietorship to Messrs. Van Duzer and Longley, who in 1879, became the purchasers and rechristened their six column quarto venture, the Iron Port.

The experience of pioneer journalism in this most peaceable spot bears no comparison with the sanguinary troubles that are wont to embarrass the fighting editors of frontier publications. It has been found editorially quite unnecessary to strap a gatling on one's shoulders or carry a cutlass between one's teeth, or bristle generally with visible weapons. The axeman chastened by his contact with the piney woods has a soul above a derringer, whilest the ore man, confident in his ability, when necessary, to punch a hole through a bar of pig iron has no need for the bowie.

The first flour and feed and hardware stores were built and the first meat stalled opened in 1865. Of the incidents connected with the history of the village and its visitation by the temporal collapse through the far reaching influence of the great commercial panic, which possessed as a nightmare the entire land in 1873, and of the process by which, through and out of its incorporation it blossomed into a city, in 1883, with a population in 1848 of 4,335 souls—but few records are extant, and few still obtainable.

An understood, but unexpressed desire to make it appear of less importance than it really was, seemed to be the ruling object of its citizens, and to the stranger who reached an estimate of its trade, by the study of ordinarily available methods, little idea could be formed of the value of its business, or the financial standing of its commercial men.

In the city of today, adult Escanaba demonstrates that she is gradually falling into line, and adopting the more live and modern methods pursued to advantage by towns, in closer contact with the greater centers of commerce. (Note—written in 1890) She has seen the stage supplanted by the railway, the slow sailing ship of antique design, disappear before the modern, swift steel steamboat; she has reached the period of newspapers, paved streets, sewers, electric lights, theatres and gaols, telegraphs, skating rinks, churches and saloons, socials and boards of alderman, which have eventuated despite fictitious aid. Other departures, and institutions, inseparable from progress and good government will follow.

Such in brief is an outline sketch of the discovery and history of Sand Point up to adult Escanaba. Its further commercial growth, its industrial advancement, its marvelous resources, and boundless possibilities, will form the subject matter of the ensuing chapters.

. . he hides behind the "cheap road" budget

"Hi" Driving Cost gets the last laugh when cheap roads are laid. For it's High Driving Cost—the excess cost of use—that makes taxpayers pay plenty for "bargain" roads.

Every type of road has its dollars-and-cents cost of use. These costs have been obtained by impartial road tests carried on by government and state engineers since 1917. They show why the "cheap" roads cost more than the high-type roads, even when traffic volumes are moderate. And they prove, as you probably thought, that a CONCRETE ROAD costs LESS TO USE than any other kind.

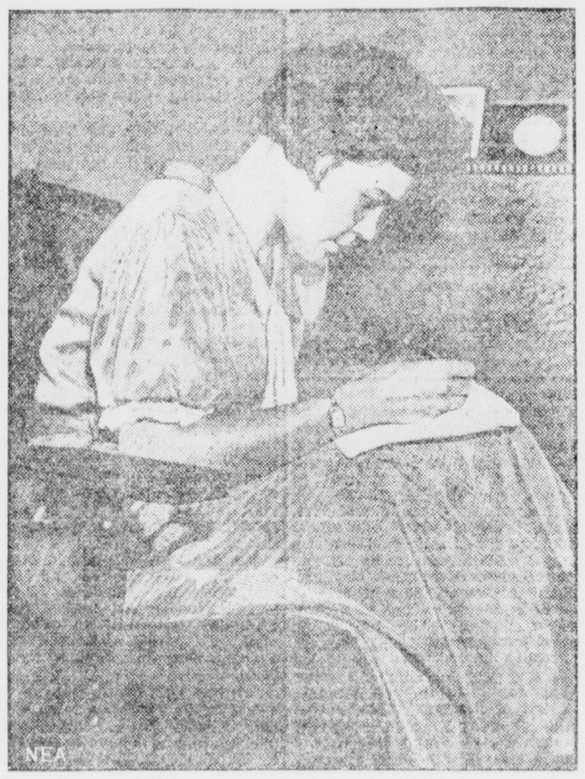
Assistant in the Byrd Expedition



The world's greatest long distance secretary! That's the distinction that was to fall to 22-year-old Helen Gray (above), as she sailed for New Zealand to assist in the second Byrd Antarctic expedition. For, with New Zealand as her base, she will take dictation via short wave radio from Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, head scientist of the expedition, when he is making observations in frozen Little America, 5200 miles away.

Miss Gray will record scientific data and conduct Dr. Poulter's correspondence. Scientific language won't stump her. She earned her expenses in her senior year at Iowa Wesleyan college by helping build the instruments with which the physcists of the expedition will make their measurements!

Daughter of a prosecuting attorney at Mt. Pleasant, Ia., Miss Gray has been a leader in athletics and scientific study at Iowa Wesleyan.

Hollywood Gossip

Hollywood—Long before Texas Guinan earned her reputation as queen of the night clubs she was a personality in the movies. The point is mentioned for the benefit of those youngsters who didn't begin going to movies until 1918 or thereafter:

Hollywood's a dude ranch to the irrepressible Miss Guinan, who remembers (and proudly, too) 'way back when. When she came to Hollywood in 1914, to become a female William S. Hart, the spaces now dotted with swimming pools, studios and million dollar movie homes were extremely wide open.

"This point's a dude ranch," exclaimed Miss Guinan, accenting every word of her opening sentence. "They waste more time and money in Hollywood than I knew existed. I've seen pictures that cost a million bucks! Why? Don't ask me. It's a shame some pictures ever were made.

"Why, for four years I made pictures and sold 'em for cash. I didn't even keep a set of books, but know darn well I made money. I financed, produced and acted in 312 pictures, and I made dough on every one of them.

"Why didn't I stay in pictures? Because I saw those mergers coming. It looked like a studio merger mystery to me, and anyway I wanted to get into a new racket. So I went night clubby—and had a flock of fun doing it."

Role of Evangelist

Miss Guinan's back here for her three hundred fourteenth film—she made one talkie three years ago—but she doesn't think she'll stay. She has a play she's greatly concerned about. Let her tell you about it:

"The name of this piece is 'Sister Aimee,' and it's all about the greatest showman in the world, Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson. It'll be a wow and I expect to make a mint of money in it. Imagine Texas Guinan, the gal they say has been leading people astray in night clubs, portraying an evangelist who's against everything. Boy, will that be a comedy!"

Improvising

In "Broadway Through a Keyhole," Texas will be herself. The script doesn't have a line for Tex; it merely indicates every so often that "Miss Guinan enters here." She'll make up her own dialog as she goes along.

The play's the thing as soon as this picture is completed. She indicated she'd had movie offers, but she'd rather try it out in the theater first. Afterwards, perhaps, she will consider selling it and her services to Hollywood.

AWAIT ANSWER ON RATE SLASH

City Officials Seek Definite Offer from Power Company

City authorities are awaiting word from the Escanaba Power company as to their final answer to Gladstone's request for a reduction in electric power rates.

Late last week, a committee composed of City Manager F. R. Buechner, Mayor Peter Peterson, and City Attorney G. W. Jackson conferred with a committee named by Escanaba, the latter city also having requested a rate slash, as to what action should be taken in the matter, and Carl Sawyer, mayor of the county seat, was named as spokesman for the two groups to request for the two cities an immediate and final offer from the power company.

Correspondence on the matter which has passed between the two parties since Gladstone first requested the slash last March has indicated that some decrease would be granted. The city requested a reduction in the schedule of rates that would place them about on the same basis as before the last increase was put into effect and would eliminate the approximate increase of about $2,000 annually that current has been costing the city since that boost.

A member of the local committee stated yesterday unless the committee would recommend that the lesser cut be refused for the reason that voluntary acceptance of such a rate schedule would set a basis which might be used by the state utilities commission in the future and mitigate against the city in case of further rate disputes.

However, if and when a rate reduction is offered by the power company the final decision as to its acceptance or rejection will rest with the city commission.

Miss Kathleen McGee accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buchanan to Detroit where she is engaged in teaching. Enroute historical points of interest will be visited at the Straits and Mackinac Island. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buchanan Marylee are returning to Ann Arbor hospital where the latter underwent a serious operation last year. Her condition is excellent and only a check-up is anticipated. They will visit the Century of Progress enroute home.

WIND STORM SWEEPS CITY

Furious Blast Causes But Minor Property Damage in Vicinity

High winds, sweeping out of the west, whistled through Gladstone at an early hour yesterday morning and although they caused but minor property damage, gave many residents here some fretful moments.

The storm, which was accompanied by thunder, lightning and some rain, and reached gale-like proportions, broke about 3 a. m. Its howling awakened sleepers and in many cases persons dressed and prepared to make their way to safety should the wind increase in velocity or large trees in the proximity of their homes crash.

NARROW ESCAPE

A. L. Raddant, city engineer, out trouble-shooting when the storm was at its heighth, had a narrow escape from injury when the wind topped a large "No Parking" sign, the falling sign just grazing the back of his shoulders.

The wind apparently was general in this section as large trees were reported down in various parts of the city. Debris covered practically every lawn.

A large plate glass window in a building at 3 Central avenue, the new location of the Escanaba branch of the Nu-Way Cleaners, was forced in and a large new sign, recently erected, torn from the front of the structure.

A number of good sized plates of glass in a building owned by Edmond Germaine at 1015 Delta avenue were also blown in and a number of other glass breakages occurred.

Metal sheeting on the old O'Connell building in the post office block was torn from the building and hurled to the sidewalk.

Light service was disrupted slightly when a transformer lead burned out near the sub-station at the city hall. The trouble was quickly located and the line was switched over to another. City trouble-shooters were on the job from the beginning of the storm.

One pole carrying the electric service line was down near Kipling as were three Soo Line telegraph poles, north of the flooring plant. It was reported that a large number of telephone poles were down between here and Rapid River, and that woods roads in the surrounding country were blocked by fallen trees.

Flower gardens and orchards also were damaged to some extent.

At the start of the storm, the wind was laden with huge clouds of dust looking almost like smoke and visibility was limited, it was reported by several out at that hour.

NRA Consumer Drive Workers Will Meet Friday To Checkup

Senior officers, including captains, who participated in the drive to place consumers under the blue eagle of the NRA conducted here last week will meet Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the council chambers of the city hall.

The gathering has been called by R. J. Riley, president of the Gladstone City club, and captains are asked to bring in all signed cards at this time so that a definite check-up can be made.

Unofficial reports given out last Saturday after completion of the house-to-house canvass indicated that a large majority of local residents had signed the consumer's statement of cooperation.

Those who were not at home at the time of the drive or who through misunderstanding failed to affix their signature, and now wish to do so may stop at the office of A. D. Alguire, 22 Central avenue, sign a pledge and receive a consumer sticker. This will eliminate the necessity of making second calls at a number of homes in the city.

THEATRES

The nation's leading radio stars make their bow to the movie public in company with a cast of screen favorites in "The Big Broadcast," romantic comedy set against the background of a radio studio, which comes to the Rialto Theatre today and tomorrow.

Bing Crosby, air ace, with Stuart Erwin and Leila Hyams, screen players, head the cast of the production. Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway and his Orchestra, Vincent Lopez and his Orchestra, Burns and Allen, and Arthur Tracy (The Street Singer) head the radio cast.

The picture does not depend for its effectiveness on the mere presence of names, however. A definite plot holds it together.

Geise Takes Over Superintendency Of School In Racine

William C. Geise, former principal of the Gladstone and Menominee high schools, Tuesday took over his new duties as superintendent of the Racine, Wis., public schools, which have an enrollment of more than 13,000 students in 17 buildings.

The Milwaukee Sentinel reported Mr. Geise's promotion in an article accompanied by a picture of the man. The qualities which made Mr. Geise outstandingly successful as a principal in Menominee and Gladstone have served him well in Racine.

He has achieved a familiarity with Racine school students, who speak of him as "Bill" Geise, without any loss of respect; he has proved an example that his contention that education can be human without loss of face is tenantable.

"Teachers must be more interested in the pupil than in the subject taught," says Mr. Geise. "No teacher can be a success unless she assumes that what she is trying to teach is only something that will help the student and not something to be glorified by itself. That is the superintendent's biggest job—to find teachers with the human quality that is priceless in a classroom."

A Modern Fault

Mr. Geise holds that one of the faults of modern education is that it has "defied the man who is a success in terms of money. We haven't put enough emphasis on social attributes. Life today is so complex it is impossible for the schools to develop its students for specific vocations.

"The practical development will come from within the student himself. The purpose of education should be to condition the student with a knowledge of what is doing in the world and in the knowledge of ethical values."

Speaking of the curtailment of school budgets, Mr. Geise said: "I don't see how we can bridge education without endangering our whole conception of a living standard.

"If we look at some phases of today's picture we are sometimes inclined to doubt the effectiveness of our education program. We have educated our people to a degree never attempted in any other country and still we have more crime than any other country. Yet I am convinced that the restraint and stability shown by the American people during the last four years of economic depression has its basis in our educational system."

Mr. Geise is 47 years old, but looks younger. He was born in Rood City, Mich., and attended Kalamazoo college where he played football. He retains a lively interest in the game. Mr. Geise earned his master of arts degree at Columbia university. His first teaching position was at Gladstone, where he served as a science teacher and football coach. From Gladstone Mr. Geise went to Menominee, was named high school principal there and went on 14 years ago to Racine.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lang returned to their home in Superior Monday after visiting here at the home of Mrs. Lang's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Olson, 417 Wisconsin avenue. Mrs. Lang has been here for the last two weeks while Mr. Lang came for the Labor Day week-end.

Peter Johnson, Of Whitedale, Passes

Peter Johnson, 73-year-old Whitedale farmer, passed away at his home Tuesday noon following an illness of seven weeks duration. The deceased had contracted a heavy chest cold which affected his heart.

Mr. Johnson was one of the early pioneers of this vicinity and his passing is deeply mourned by his many friends. He had followed the occupation of farming throughout his life and had lived on his farm between Whitedale and Blaney for the past 45 years. He is survived by his widow, four daughters, and one son.

BIG FAIR DAY TO BE TUESDAY

Schoolcraft Horses Will Occupy Track; Card Fine Attractions

Tuesday, September 12, the opening day of the Twenty-Second Annual Schoolcraft County Free Fair, is being boomed as the greatest day of the fair, the only opportunity of witnessing a galaxy of home talent attractions during the three day event.

The opening day will offer the only chance of seeing local horses in action in a program of slow races, and three heats of free-for-all saddle races in which the fastest animals in the county will participate.

Other home talent attractions listed on the amusement program include a diamond ball game between leading aggregations in the Manistique Diamond Ball league and a platform act including wire walking, trapeze stunts, and thrilling exhibitions by the Rogers Brothers, expert local gymnasts. Al Ranguette, of Nahma, who thrilled the crowd at the Legion picnic with his electrifying loop the loops, tail spins, and barrel rolls, will again perform his aerial stunts next Tuesday afternoon.

Another feature on the Tuesday afternoon program will be the appearance of Claude E. Parmelee, of Iron Mountain, rifle, pistol and shotgun expert, who at one time held the state trapshooting championship. He is noted as a great trick shot artist and his exhibition will doubtless be of superb interest.

Tuesday will be entry day at the fair and all exhibits are required to be entered by 1:30 p. m., thus giving first-day goers an opportunity of seeing the complete line of agricultural exhibits.

Reports of the popularity contest in which five prizes totalling $150 in awards, will be given to women and girls who sell the greatest number of grandstand tickets, show Jeanette Multhaupt, Rose Dupont, and Bernice Wood in the lead. All contestants are running close, however, and any kind of a spurt by the others, will see the leaders supplanted. Ticket sales are being greatly accelerated as the dates of Schoolcraft county's greatest fair draw near.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—With commodities firmer, stocks today retraced ground lost on an early sag. Closing prices were somewhat irregular, but the average, in which the more prominent leaders are used, finished with a minute net gain.

Around noon losses of 1 to 3 points were numerous, but thereafter the market crawled back. Activity, however, was less on the rally than on the decline, though quotations made their highs for the session in the late dealings. Transactions totaled 1,885,380 shares.

Developments of possible influence to the trend were meager. Trading had a professional tinge; presumably late rising tendencies represented covering by shorts who did not care to be caught in the event of a sudden bit of "favorable" news. Rail stocks drooped despite evidence of better loadings last week. Oils liked the price increases for their basic product, noting particularly the reappearance of dollar crude in California. Alcohols rallied mildly on the heels of Vermont's repeal vote. Steels encountered pressure most of the day.

Publication of the usual mid-week statistics on steel production and electric power output was postponed for a day. It was assumed that a further recession had occurred in steel mill activity, because of familiar recent influences and also because neither the railroads nor the construction industry appear to be buying material. Most of the railroads which reported last week's freight volume showed an increase over the previous period.

Scattering chain store sales figures for August revealed liberal percentage gains over a year ago. Woolworth had the best volume since last December, although for the year to date the company is still running a little behind 1932.

Selling of steel shares coincided with advance estimates of the probable decrease in the steel corporation's August backlog. Guesses ranged from about 150,000 to nearly 200,000 tons, forecasters basing their predictions on the falling off in new business which seems to have occurred late last month. Actual figures will be published Saturday noon. General Motors August sales report, another business barometer, is also due later this week.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Sept. 6—Influenced by hopeful prospects regarding N. R. A. codes, grain markets late today more than overcame almost 2 cents loss in wheat and 1 cent in corn.

Leading trade authorities said the grain price trend for the immediate future would be probably contingent upon how the codes worked out. Scantiness of domestic primary arrivals of wheat acted also as an incentive to purchase, and there were comprehensive advices that United States winter wheat farmers were rapidly signing government contracts to reduce acreage.

Wheat closed 1¾ to 2 cents net lower at yesterday's finish to 1 cent higher, corn 1-8 off to ¼ up, oats 1-8 to ¼ down, and provisions unchanged to 17 cents decline.

Downturns which preceded the late advance of wheat values were ascribed more to temporary dearth of speculative demand than to pressure of selling. Hedging sales from rural sources was less pronounced, although the northwest was credited with selling from time to time. Persistent dry and cold weather prevailed in Argentina, and there was general belief that the Argentine wheat yield this season would fall well below the 239,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat. Shipping demand here for corn was decidedly better. Weakness shown in rye was due to selling against purchases of wheat.

Provisions averaged lower, governed largely by hog market changes.

At the battle of Arbela, Alexander was only 25 years old.

Curb Gains After Forenoon Flurry; Closing Irregular

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—The curb market closed a bit irregular today after recovering substantially from the effects of a moderate selling flurry just prior to noon. Losses ranged from fractions to more than 2 points at one time.

The recovery movement was gradual and gathered some momentum in the last half hour. Oils were quiet but pushed slightly ahead in the late dealings on the strength of improved prices for crude. Humble Oil eased a major fraction while similar gains were recorded by Standard Oils of Indiana and Kentucky and Gulf Oil.

Small recessions predominated in the power group, Electric Bond and Share, American Light & Traction and Commonwealth Edison easing fractions to around a point. Mining issues mostly recovered from early weakness excepting New Jersey Zinc which about halved a 7 point drop.

New England Telephone staged a 12 point advance on a small turnover while Phillip Morris "A" gained half as much. Transfers approximated 262,000 shares compared with 228,000 for Tuesday.

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Despite a late moderate rally, the bond market finished with a noticeably heavy tone today and prices suffered their sharpest relapse in the past several weeks.

Trading activity, however, was still below normal with sales totaling only $8,502,000, par value, about the same as yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues ended with a loss of seven-tenths of a point.

While there was little definite news to account for the selloff, dealers attributed the liquidation partly to uneasiness over the early fall business outlook. Secondary railway liens were subjected to considerable pressure, but the low-priced utilities and industrials were also soft. Prime investment loans generally fluctuated in a fractional range.

United States government securities were dull and a bit easier. Foreign obligations were irregular. Havana Electric 5s dropped 10 points on a few sales and Cuban government bonds were down 1 to 2 as a probable result of unsettled political conditions in the republic. Issues of France and Belgium were up a point or more, but Swiss 5½s lost 3 and the Germans were down 1 to 2.

Special Postage Stamps Suggested

Ross V. Wells of Pontiac, Michigan, in a communication to the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, proposes two special issues of U. S. postage stamps which he believes are due to the great state of Michigan and would give her some excellent publicity.

"The tercentary of Jean Nicollet's coming to Sault Ste. Marie, Mackinac Island and the great northwest will be celebrated in the Upper Peninsula next year," says Mr. Wells. "A stamp depicting Nicollet's landing and issued well in advance of the celebration should help materially.

"Michigan became a state in 1837, through the participation of early and illustrious citizens living in all parts of the territory. One of the participants in the convention was Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, who was probably the Upper Peninsula's most distinguished man living at the time, and a resident of Mackinac Island. It isn't too early to begin planning now for a state wide anniversary in 1937, and one of the features could be, very consistently, a U. S. stamp calling the nation's attention to the event."

Federal Land Bank Loans Are Applied For In Peninsula

"With applications of 975 Michigan farmers for a total of $3,104,900 in mortgage loans during the first three weeks of August, the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul is making vigorous efforts to expand the appraisal force in this state to cope with the situation," said G. S. Johnson of Manistique, director.

There are 24 men now in training in the upper and lower peninsula under the personal instruction of eight experienced appraisers, and several of the new men are expected to be commissioned this week. We are aiming to have 75 at work in Michigan.

"The present small force is inadequate to the situation, but is steadily making progress in its work, although the present appraisers are more occupied in training the new men than in trying to turn in a maximum of reports. Nevertheless the increase in volume is well illustrated from the figures for the first three full weeks of this month.

"With the handicap of giving instruction, answering questions, etc., there were 16 Federal Land Bank appraisals turned in the first week for a total of $22,100, 43 the second week for a total of $95,100, and 54 the third week for a total of $159,500. In addition to the appraisals for the Federal Land Bank loans there were during the same period 110 appraisals for Land Bank Commissioner loans totalling $125,400, making a total for the three weeks of 223 appraisals and $402,100.

"This is a substantial increase for each succeeding week, and when the men are fully trained and the time of the entire field force can be given to the appraisal of applicants' farms we hope to be able to maintain an average of 2 to 3 farms per day per man. By relieving the appraisers of some of the work they have had to do in the past, and having this done for them, their time and skill can be entirely devoted to field work.

"As fast as the new men are proven proficient in their work, they are given two farms each to appraise, and if they do this work satisfactorily they are recommended for commissions," concluded Mr. Johnson. "Sometimes additional instruction is necessary, but we are finding that the excellent quality of the applicants in Michigan has made possible their adequate training generally in a period of 4 to 12 days of actual work, and as fast as the new men are released to go on their own, our instructors take on a new group of three beginners."

Early Trial Asked
Iron Mountain—Because most of the issues involving $5,000 or less pending in circuit court at Milwaukee, Wis., have been taken over by the civil judge, indications are that the $200,000 damage suit filed by James Fiorelli upper Michigan residents and well known here, against the Gettleman Brewing company, of Milwaukee, will be up for trial probably early in November, according to the statement Saturday of Martin S. McDonough, of Iron River, attorney for the plaintiffs.

Giants Break Even With Pirates, 5-6 and 9-1

2 MORE GAMES LEFT IN SERIES

Pittsburgh Fans Pack Park; Nightcap Is Walkaway

Pittsburgh, Sept. 6 (AP)—The New York Giants today successfully fought off the challenge of the Pirates for the National league leadership as they gained an even break in a doubleheader to retain their six and one-half game advantage over Pittsburgh.

After seeing their lead reduced to five and one-half games as the result of the Pirates 6 to 5 ten-inning victory in the first game, the Giants came back to slug out a 9 to 1 decision in the second contest behind the effective seven-hit pitching of Hal Schumacher.

The Pirate fans, rather apathetic yesterday to the chances of George Gibson's men, turned out in full force, 22,000 packing Forbes Field. The split gave the Pirates two of the three games played with two more remaining on the schedule, tomorrow and the final game Friday.

The first game was won by relief Pitcher Bill Swift after the Corsairs had come from behind to tie the score in the eighth on a pair of triples by Pie Traynor and Arky Vaughan and Tommy Thevenow's single. With Vaughan on second as the result of his single matched by Thevenow's one-bagger, Swift punched a single to center, scoring the Pirate shortstop with the deciding run.

The Pirates never were in running in the nightcap as the Giants cut loose in the first inning on Ralph Birkofer, who recently defeated them in New York. Before Chagnon could be rushed to the rescue the Terrymen had scored two runs and had the bases loaded. Gus Mancuso greeted Chagnon with a double, clearing the bases, and sending Schumacher away to a five-run lead.

No More Tennis For Mrs. Moody For Six Months

San Francisco, Sept. 6 (AP)—There will be no tennis for Helen Wills Moody for six months and "possibly longer," her father, Dr. C. A. Wills of Berkeley, said today.

Mrs. Moody is in the Stanford hospital following return from the east where she defaulted to Helen Jacobs during the national championship finals match.

Dr. Wills said careful examination of his daughter's injured back and study of x-ray plates "showed evidence of pressure on the root fibers of the right sciatic nerve as they emerge through the opening between the fifth lumbar vertebrae and the sacrum."

"This condition has existed for a period of nearly three months," he added, "with the resultant definite pain, tenderness and a feeling of numbness throughout the entire right hip and leg.

Motion of the right leg is interfered with and almost the entire weight of the body is carried through the left leg. The cause of this condition is severe muscular strain of the back.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

Baseball's Big Six had two new members today to replace Al Simmons and Wes Schulmerich. Lou Gehrig, with three hits in four times at bat yesterday, replaced Simmons in the American League's half of the sextet while Chick Hafey, who connected with five hits in two games, ousted Schulmerich from the National League trio. Gehrig's slugging left him with an average of .331, one point more than Simmons. Hafey, with a gain of five points, boosted his average to .327.

FOOTBALL YEAR STARTED HERE

Escanaba and St. Joseph Coaches Report Light Material

The thud of the pigskin resounded in Escanaba yesterday, officially announcing the opening of the 1933 football season although the weather was anything but a reminder that the great fall sport is making its seasonal bow. Heat waves caused decided discomfort for the moleskin clad boys of Escanaba and St. Joseph high schools but the coaches were satisfied. They figure that the heat will do lots of good in whittling the paunches that have accumulated over the summer.

Approximately 60 boys were outfitted at the Escanaba high school by Coach Nordberg and were sent through a short practice drill. Practice sessions will start in earnest tonight at the Eskymo camp.

Coach George Carr has issued equipment to 30 boys at St. Joseph and plans to outfit at least that many more before the week is over.

Nordberg expressed surprise in the lack of weight apparent in his squad but said that several veterans from last year's team will form a good nucleus for the team.

St. Joseph lost practically the entire 1932 team by graduation and Coach Carr faces the job of rebuilding from the reserves of last year and the candidates from the new class. Only three lettermen remain. The candidates at St. Joseph generally are light, Carr reports.

Both Escanaba and St. Joseph will open their season on Sept. 23. Escanaba playing Manistique here and the Parochials traveling to the Soo. This is the first year that St. Joseph has been on the Soo schedule.

Iron River Boy, 11, Gets Hole In One

Iron River, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—Paul Lindwall, son of the president of the Iron River Country club, is only 11 years old but he has a hole in one to his credit.

He holed out his ice shot on the 147-yard fifth hole today, using a brassie. Holes in one seem to run in the family, for his father, J. E. Lindwall, scored the first ace on the course last year on the same hole.

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—Gasoline prices at all stations of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will be increased half a cent a gallon Thursday, the company announced today. The increase will also take effect in tank wagon prices.

The first legalized horse and dog racing in Oregon returned $81,850 to the state treasury. The horse meet lasted 20 days, the dog contests 40 nights.

TIGERS CLINCH FIRST ONE, 11-5

Red Sox Pitchers Give Passes; Greenberg Has Big Day

Boston, Sept. 6 (AP)—Three Red Sox pitchers were liberal with hits and bases on balls today and as a result the Detroit Tigers took the first game of the current series, 11 to 5.

Roxy Lawson started for the Tigers but was removed after one and a third innings during which he allowed five bases on balls and three runs. Elon Hogsett then took up the burden and except for the sixth held the Red Hose helpless.

Brown, the starting pitcher for the Sox, was equally ineffective granting six bases on balls and eight hits in the three and a third innings he toiled.

Kline followed him and lasted the next inning and a third when Fullerton was called in to carry the load to the end of the game.

Hank Greenberg was the shining star of the Tiger attack, getting three hits and two walks in five trips to the plate, batting in four runs and scoring once himself.

A four run barrage by the Tigers in the fourth inning settled the issue after each team had scored once in the first inning and twice in the second.

BIERMAN PICKS BIG 10 LEADERS

Gopher Coach Predicts Michigan and Purdue on Top

By RICHARD P. POWERS

Minneapolis (AP)—Michigan and Purdue, in the opinion of Bernie Bierman, University of Minnesota grid coach, are likely to battle it out for the Big Ten football title this fall.

But he looks for the Western conference season to be strewn with plenty of upsets.

The greatest change from 1932, Bierman believes, will lie in the increased strength of last year's second division teams.

"I anticipate much closer games this year," says Bernie, "and expect several surprising upsets in a colorful season. The pressure will be on Michigan and Purdue, however, and you will have to get by them to look at the title."

Sees Wisconsin As Tough

Bierman thinks Wisconsin also will be tough. Last year the Badgers came back with a rush to end the season with only a tie with Ohio State and a 7-to-6 loss to Purdue to mar their record.

Of his own Minnesota team, Bernie says its strength will depend largely on sophomores. He expects the Gophers to be "about as strong as last year."

More weight in Northwestern's line will offset the loss of "Pug" Rentner, in Bierman's opinion, and he contends the Purple must be considered a factor in the title fight. Ohio State, he thinks, should be able at least to maintain its position of last year.

Sees No Set-Ups

"And Indiana, Illinois, Chicago and Iowa will be far from set-ups," he predicts. "All four will be considerably stronger than last year and are likely to figure in some startling upsets that may change the trend of the whole championship struggle.

"These four schools are getting some good replacements from sophomore material and are likely to provide some miserable afternoons for opponents this fall."

Michigan's power and punch should continue on the same level of 1932, Bierman believes, as the Wolverines suffered comparatively few losses by graduation.

And he looks for Purdue's forces to be kept at top strength by last year's reserves and good sophomore prospects, although the Boilermakers were hit heavily by graduation of several stars.

Quarterback Big Need of Notre Dame Army

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 6 (AP)—Ten complete teams will answer Coach Heartley "Hunk" Anderson's football call this fall but out of that large field of material he must find one outstanding star for one position to mould another winning machine for Notre Dame.

That man is a quarterback.

If he finds his man, look out for Notre Dame again this fall. If he doesn't, don't be surprised if the South Bend Ramblers get stepped on plenty during their battles against the strongest teams from coast to coast.

Except for a pair of guards, the Notre Dame squad of 1933 shapes up almost identically with that of last year with power in the backfield, good men at the wings, tackles, and at center but no one outstanding pilot, who can lead the team in its daring, spectacular style of play—a type of game that makes instead of waiting for precious breaks and scoring advantages, and requires a fast thinking quarterback, who can pick the spots. Last fall, the Notre Dame team unquestionably was one of the strongest in football but time and again it "lost its way" and couldn't click because a pilot like Frank Carideo wasn't at the helm.

There are 10 candidates for the quarterback position at the campus of the golden dome this fall but two of them probably carry the high hopes of Coach Anderson. They are Al McGuff of Chicago, a junior with some experience last year, and Tony Mazziotti, 19-year old sophomore from Carideo's neighborhood in New York.

Those who have watched Mazziotti play and direct an attack claim he will be another Carideo as he has everything a good quarterback needs with enough weight, speed and blocking ability. Can he develop quick enough for the 1933 football wars or will McGuff or some other prospect step in? That is the big football question at Notre Dame. Andy Pilney, one of Chicago's greatest prep stars, is a candidate for the backfield and possibly he may be shifted to quarterback.

Several other backfield men there always are plenty of them at Notre Dame—may be given tryouts at the guards berths in an attempt to plug up those holes. There will be no captain this fall but out of the 68 candidates invited back for practice, 39 were captains in their prep days.

Here's the Notre Dame schedule for 1933:

Sept. 30—
Oct. 7—Kansas at South Bend.
Oct. 14—at Indiana.
Oct. 21—at Carnegie Tech.
Oct. 28—Pittsburgh at South Bend.
Nov. 4—Navy at Baltimore.
Nov. 11—Purdue at South Bend.
Nov. 18—Northwestern at Evanston.
Nov. 25—Southern California at South Bend.
Dec. 2—Army at New York.

GRIND IS FATAL TO BOY WONDER

Both Lott and Parker Are International Tennis Victims

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—Chief among the casualties today in the rapidly tightening international tennis battle for the American men's singles championship were the "Boy Wonder" from Milwaukee, 17-year-old Frankie Parker, and the "Man of Moods" from Chicago, George Martin Lott, jr.

Tournament officials thought so well of Parker's chances beforehand that they "seeded" him as high as fifth in the American list, despite objections and the fact that he was ranked No. 12 on the national list.

The youthful holder of the National Clay-Court championship failed to meet his first real test and fell before Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Calif., who was not seeded at all, by scores of 4-6, 6-3, 11-9, 6-3.

Lott's defeat by Ryosuke Nunoi, youthful Japanese, in five sets was not much of an upset, according to the "seeded" positions of the two players. A combination of wildness, peevishness over a number of close shots and the steadiness of the Japanese at critical stages enabled Nunoi to pull out an unexpected victory by scores of 5-7, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Otherwise the ranks of the favorites held fast, in a series of brisk third round matches. Upwards of 5,000 spectators saw the field whittled down to 16 players for the fourth round tomorrow. Gledhill was the lone "unseeded" survivor. Five of the original 20 planted in the draw have now gone to the sidelines.

Three of the four top-seeded favorites, Champion Ellsworth Vines, Frank X. Shields and Fred Perry, the British Davis cup ace, swept through the third round without the loss of a set but the fourth, Jack Crawford of Australia, was troubled by the heat and the opposition before downing Jack Tidball of Hollywood, Calif., the American intercollegiate champion.

Shields will play Nunoi tomorrow while Perry, who disposed of the 18-year-old Marco Hecht of New York today, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, meets Gledhill.

Other features of tomorrow's pairings put the Australian youngsters, Vivian McGrath and Adrian Quist, up against top-ranking Americans. McGrath will try his two-handed backhand against the redoubtable Cliff Sutter of New Orleans while Quist meets Wilmer Allison, Davis cup player, who was hard-pressed today to overcome his doubles partner, Johnny Van Ryn, 1-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

BOXING

GRIFFITHS KAYOED

Boston, Sept. 6 (AP)—Spotting him 10 pounds Tony Shucco, speedy Boston heavyweight tonight scored a surprising four-round knockout over Tuffy Griffiths of Chicago, in the 10-round feature of the Burke Sporting club's initial boxing show at Mechanics building. Shucco weighed 177 and Griffiths 187.

ESCANABA HAS BOXERS' CLUB

Matches To Be Staged at State Fair Grounds Soon

A boxing club recently organized under the auspices of the Escanaba Rifle Club, will put on boxing matches at the exhibition building, state fair grounds, very soon, it was announced last night.

The application for a state boxing promoter's license was sent to Lansing Sept. 5, and it is expected that the first show will be put on Sept. 15 if the license is approved in time.

The boxing club has secured the services of two good boxers from the Grand Rapids Golden Gloves team, also several other boxers who have appeared in lower Michigan elimination tournaments for competition in the Chicago Golden Gloves events. Some of these men are now with C. C. C. contingents, and after roughing it in the northern woods all summer along with their gymnasium training they will be found in the pink of condition.

Escanaba has three good boxers who have been trained in the Jack Hanson method of the cauliflower industry. Leon Walker is a Dave Shade type of battler, 148 pounds, who will give the boys a treat. Tiger Johnson, 148 pounds and undefeated at his weight, has already demonstrated his ability, and Joe Lafleur, the Escanaba Maxie Baer, is now ready to step out.

Gladstone will send Joe Anderson, who is seen occasionally training with the local boys. Anderson lost his first two fights and then won 17 straight before losing to the runner-up Jim Cummings of Chicago, followed by a close decision with Luke Ebel of Milwaukee. Since that time he has won about six straight. His most recent victory was at Manistique over Eckelstauffer of Newberry, a light heavyweight, whom Anderson put away on a knockout. Anderson is a middleweight, and will give local fans an opportunity to see him in action.

The promoters intend to put on a boxing show at Escanaba that will have all experienced boxers, and it is hoped that Escanaba can develop some good men for the Golden Gloves meet at Chicago. With the boy already mentioned, not to forget Joe Lafleur, a light heavyweight, it is believed by many that these Escanaba men will go a long way.

In securing the C. C. C. fighters for the show, plenty of competition will be secured. Among them will be Howard Green of Daggett, the K. O. specialist at 148, who created a stir at Stephenson last year. He will find his hands plenty busy in crossing mitts with Chester Allekt of Co. 671, C. C. C. deposters say. The conservation corps boys are anxious to show their ability which they are bringing to the peninsula from Grand Rapids and Detroit.

The Press will carry a complete lineup of the bouts as soon as the local club receives a wire notifying them that their license has been approved. It is expected that the first card will go on Sept. 15, however. Arthur F. Sundling, ex-navy man, will be the referee.

ROSS AND TONY BOTH LOOK FINE

Receipts Over $100,000 Forecast for Next Tuesday Night

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—In two widely separated lake side camps in New Jersey, Barney Ross, new lightweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri, former title holder who becomes a challenger again in the Polo grounds in New York next Tuesday night, settled down today to the final drive through their training schedule.

Essaying an ambition experiment in Trans-Jersey cross country travel, experts watched the 22-year-old youngster who beat Canzoneri for the title in Chicago box four rounds at Lake Swannanoa, then took hasty flight 20 miles through the hot countryside in time to see Tony box six rounds at Pompton lakes.

Both warriors appeared to be in splendid condition and both worked expertly. Each scored one knock down during the afternoon with exactly the same type of punch. Ross floored Patsy Pascull in the first round of his workout and Canzoneri did the same with Lou Lomardi.

With the match attracting so much attention that forecasts of gate receipts over $100,000 are given serious attention, the fighters are scheduled to appear at the New York State Athletic commission in New York tomorrow for examination. Ross weighed 137 pounds before working today, two over the class limit, and Canzoneri 134.

Frisch And His Cards Take Two On Philadelphia

St. Louis, Sept. 6 (AP)—The Cardinals retained their record of not having been defeated at home since Frankie Frisch became their manager, by rallying sharply in the ninth inning of the second game of today's double header to vanquish the Philadelphia Phillies, 8 to 7. The Cardinals won the opener, 3 to 1.

A double by Orsatti, a homer by Martin, a single by Walker, a triple by Medwick, followed by a fly by Collins which scored Medwick, gave the Cardinals the second game in the ninth, after they showed little punch in the early innings against Austin (Cy) Moore's deliberate pitching.

Dodgers and Reds Go Fifty-Fifty In Their Twin Bill

Cincinnati, Sept. 6 (AP)—Blasting out 21 hits in the second game, the Cincinnati Reds today earned an even break in a double header with Brooklyn, winning the nightcap 18 to 8 after the Dodgers had accounted for the curtain raiser, 7 to 3.

Four unearned runs, scored in the seventh inning on two hits, a pass and a pair of errors, gave Brooklyn the first game.

The second game was easy for the veteran, Larry Benton, once the Red scored eight runs in the first two innings, six of them in the second.

'STIQUE OPENS WITH FLIVVERS

Wassberg Will Resort to Speed and Deception, Squad Is Light

1933 GRID SCHEDULE

Sept. 16—Kingsford, Here.
Sept. 23—Escanaba, There.
Sept. 30—Gladstone, Here.
Oct. 7—St. Joseph, Escanaba, Here.
Oct. 14—Newberry, There.
Oct. 21—Negaunee, There.
Oct. 28—Sault Ste. Marie, Here.

Faced with the problem of a light and green squad, Coach Oscar Wassberg is whipping his boys into shape for the first game of the season here a week from Saturday when the Kingsford gridders will furnish the opposition.

Light work-outs consisting of limbering up exercises, punting, and passing constituted the bulk of the practice sessions thus far. First drills of the year were held Friday, Saturday, and Monday. Approximately 50 candidates were in harness last week, but the number was boosted to 55 this week with the beginning of classes.

The 1933 Green Wave, like last year's eleven, will be very light with a weight average of from 140-145 pounds. Coach Wassberg will again have to resort to his shift attack, based upon speed and deception, which carried the team through the 1932 season with only two defeats, a 13-0 loss to Kingsford in the first game of the season and a 6-2 loss to the Sault, a game played under extremely unfavorable weather conditions.

The nucleus of Manistique's team will be in co-Captains Sylvester Rubick, an experienced backfield man, and Orville Houghton, sturdy lineman who has been a bulwark on defense for the past three years. The chief missing cog in the machine is Harvey Ekdahl, who last year was the only upper peninsula player mentioned on the all-state team.

Anxious for revenge against the Flivver City lads, the locals are showing much zest and enthusiasm in their drills and will be out to make amends a week from Saturday. The season's schedule looms up as a tough grind with seven games carded for as many weeks.

Seeded Girls' Net Entrants Survive

Philadelphia, Sept. 6 (AP)—Dominating play through three rounds of the girls' national tennis title tourney, the seeded list—one Easterner, a mid-west entrant and two from the Pacific coast—brushed aside opponents today and entered the semi-final bracket.

The Pacific coast's representation, predominant in the seedings, continued intact into the semi-finals, Bonnie Miller and Frances Herron, top and fourth-ranked in the tourney, taking their quarter-final matches in stride with little difficulty.

Going into the next to the last bracket with them were Millicent Hirsch, of New York, seeded second and rated the fifth best player in the nation, and Elizabeth Kesting, St. Paul, Minn., ace, ranked third.

Salt Lake City Beats St. James

Zielinski of Grand Rapids hit a home run into the distant left field stands for the feature blow of the game.

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—Bud Tinning withstood a ninth inning challenge by the Boston Braves today and the Chicago Cubs took the opening game of the three-piece series, 4 to 3.

After being shut out on three singles for eight innings, while the Chicagoans chased Freddie Frankhouse with a five-hit, three run attack in the first two innings and picked up another off Rob Smith in the seventh, the Braves rallied for three runs in the ninth and had the tying run on second base when Hal Lee fouled to Hartnett to end the game and give Tinning his season's 12th victory.

Welfare Labor Unprotected

Iron Mountain—A new ruling by the state supreme court that welfare workers are not entitled to damages under the workmen's compensation law may result in saving Iron Mountain, Kingsford Norway, the county and townships a considerable amount of money, it was stated today.

While officials are studying the situation, additional information on the court opinion is being sought by Prosecuting Attorney Paul Rahm to determine whether it applies here. If it does, the large sum of money now paid out monthly on this account may hereafter be saved.

Burns Fatal to Boy

Sault Ste. Marie—Cyril Thibert, 9-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Tribert, Oak Ridge Park, died at 9:30 this morning in the War Memorial hospital from burns suffered when a boat in which he was a passenger burned Sunday at 12:30 at Oak Ridge.

Five of the seven passengers were brought to the hospital. The boy's mother, Mrs. Marie Thibert, 37, was the last one to leave the hospital; she was released this morning. She had burns about the hand and legs.

Henry A. Thibert and one boy were released shortly after they had been brought in. Mr. Thibert's mother, Mrs. Hosanna Thibert, 75, was released Monday afternoon.

Van Wagoner at Sault

Sault Ste. Marie—Murray D. VanWagoner, state highway commissioner for Michigan, honor guest at a banquet program given at the Hotel Ojibway Saturday evening, was told by a number of Sault citizens who spoke briefly at the dinner, of the needs of this community from a highway standpoint, and he, in turn, expressed his deepest interest in Chippewa county and pledged consideration of these needs.

That the highway commissioner is in sincere accord with the plans to construct a new bridge over the waterpower canal on Ashmun street was indicated. He said that as soon as approval of the project is given by federal authorities, the state will act to get it under way. The money with which the work would be done is federal money.

With cool military precision more than 1,000 soldiers of the sea were assembled here to go to Cuba if the command comes.

Their officers said no orders had been received beyond those which brought in several trainloads of fighting men during the day from marine barracks and naval shore stations in the middle Atlantic region.

All preparations necessary were being made, however, to load trains or navy transport ships with supplies for an overseas expedition.

Always Ready

Brigadier General Harry Lee, a short, solid individual with years of active service behind him, said the emergency preparations didn't amount to much.

"We are a specialized force and we are always ready," he said.

As commanding general of the Quantico barracks he directed the organization of the expeditionary force.

Every man has the individual equipment he needs for field service, Lee said. If heavier equipment, such as field guns and Howitzers, is considered necessary by Washington, they can be made ready in a few hours. Ammunition and machine guns can be loaded aboard ship or train almost as quickly as the men, he said.

Colonel R. P. Williams, until recently head of the Haitian police force, will command the expedition to Cuba if one is ordered. Lieutenant Colonel John R. Henley, a mountain of a man with a reputation among officers for being "a hard boiled marine," will be second in command. Both Williams and Henley are Georgians, veterans of the world war and other notable marine expeditions.

The regiment will be known as the seventh.

Mostly Veterans

Officers and men bore an unconcerned look as they stepped from trains, marched along the graveled paths to barracks buildings and were sorted into companies and battalions.

Smooth faced boys and a sprinkling of grizzled old non-coms who served in the Boxer rebellion were among the marching men.

Officers said 90 per cent of those who might go were veterans of China, Nicaragua, Haiti or other foreign assignments.

The first trainload of 183 men came from the Washington navy yard and marine barracks. Another detachment was from the naval stations around Philadelphia. Others were due from the Hampton Roads Naval Operating Base, Parris Island, South Carolina, and other posts along the coast.

When the organization of the ficers and men is completed the force will undergo regimental drill and maneuvers until it is ordered abroad or demobilized.
